PRAIRIE CROP OUTLOOK BRIGHTER AFTER RAINS

Large Plains Areas Now Need Warm Weather For Grain

Late Sown Fields Have Improved Since Beginning of July, Says Report Issued by Bureau of Statistics To-day, Which Tells of Benefits of Recent Rains

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 21.—Helpful rain fell over the greater part of Canada's prairie grain lands and was generally favorable for crop growth, says the Bureau of Statistics in a telegraphic report to-day, reviewing the crop outlook as of the last week.

Late sown crops have improved in aspect since the first of the present month, while wheat on summerfallow is subjected to undue winds, and drought damage promises a fair return, report continues. Wheat stubbled or on-ploughed land is thin and even. In those areas outside the drought region where wheat stands are green, particularly in north-central parts, hot weather is needed to mature the backward crops. Wheat has now reached the stage where it is subject to hail damage and some bad storms were reported in parts.

RAINBOW COOK SEEKS PENSION

Col. Cy Peck, V.C., Denounces Frivolous Appeals Forced on Advocate

Applicants Fail to Appear Before Tribunal When Cases Are Called

Unjustified attempts to get war pensions for life brought forth denunciations from the Pensions Tribunal sitting to-day under Col. H. Mackenzie, D.S.O., here to-day. The tribunal to-day faced a series of cases in which the applicants did not even bother to appear.

The judges and lawyers went into some length, the cases of a former seaman who enlisted in the Canadian navy at Esquimaux in 1916, and on H.M.S. Shearwater and ashore, and then went as a cook on the U.S.S. Rainbow, where he remained until he obtained his discharge at the end of the war. He field claim to pension on the basis of exposure on his service in and out of the water.

When Gerald H. Sedger, soldiers' advocate, in presenting the case, read a statement that the Rainbow's cook's service had been confined to "septic" waters, the judges asked whether this meant the Pacific Ocean in peacetime areas. The counsel was able to decide finally.

The judges asked why the Rainbow's cook had not shown up personally before the tribunal if he wanted pension. Mr. Sedger explained that the man was perhaps busy on another day.

"Well, he'll have to come here, we can't go out after him," said Col. Cy Peck, V.C., associated judge. Col. Mackenzie asked how old the cook was, but this could not be discovered.

McNeil, president of the association, welcomed the visiting players to the city, and wished them every success in the competitions.

GUARDS AVERT JAIL OUTBREAK

Men on Walls of Illinois Prison Ready to Quell Threatened Riot

Joliet, Ill., July 21.—Quick action by prison authorities, alarmed by reports of a convict plan to bomb the walls, probably prevented possible disorders at the Stateville penitentiary to-day.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, an hour after the reported "zero hour," when there had been no commotion, but Warden Henry C. Hill kept his guards and auxiliaries on the walls with machine guns at "ready." Preparedness appeared to have quelled any plans for a threatened outbreak.

RIVER FLOOD IN QUEBEC WRECKS SCORE OF HOUSES

Canadian Press
St. Raymond, Quebec, July 21.—About 100 families here are refugees while the Ste. Anne River is in a flooded condition. The rise of the river is believed to have resulted by recent heavy rains at several lakes which empty into the stream near this head.

When the families fled from their homes between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning, all land bordering on the edge of the river had been inundated and the water had covered the ground floors of houses to a depth of three feet.

BOATS USED

Due to the rapid flooding of the town, great difficulties were experienced in getting aged men and women and children to places of safety, it being necessary to transfer them to higher levels by means of rafts and boats. Boats also had to be pressed into commission to remove guests from a hotel, and one woman, Madame Fourtier, who is ill, had to be lowered from her room in the hotel to a canoe moored below her window.

A large number of livestock perished and the carcasses were carried down the turbulent waters.

HOUSES WRECKED

No lives were lost in the flood, and by noon the water was receding, leaving a scene of desolation. About twenty dwellings were reduced to splintered heaps of wreckage, and damage to household goods ran to thousands of dollars.

COAST OFFERS MUCH COLOR FOR STORY WRITERS

Every Conceivable Setting on Island, Says H. Napier Moore of MacLean's

Number of Writers Who Make Mark Comparatively Small as Style Lacking, He Says

There is a wealth of colorful background for story writers in British Columbia, according to H. Napier Moore, managing editor of MacLean's Magazine, who arrived in the city to-day from Toronto via Seattle on his annual western scouting tour.

"This is a very romantic Coast and there is ample material available for the short story writer," Mr. Moore said. "The founding of Vancouver Island, for instance, offers remarkable historical possibilities for the writer and the fiction material offered is inexhaustible."

Mr. Moore contends that the writers of Western Canada are sitting on top of new material, but are evidently so close to it that it is their blind spot.

"I am amazed to find there are not more stories with the wonderful backgrounds that are to be found here. There is every conceivable setting right on this island," he said.

RAINE MAKES MARK

Mr. Moore is of the opinion that one of the most successful writers to-day is Norman Riley Raine, now a resident of Seattle, whose short stories have been appearing in MacLean's Magazine and The Saturday Evening Post.

Mr. Raine was formerly on the editorial staff of MacLean's Magazine and Mr. Moore made a special trip to Seattle in order to meet him.

"Tugboat Annie," by Mr. Raine, will shortly be produced as a "talkie" by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer corporation, which has just purchased the moving picture rights for $10,000.

The lead in the picture will be taken by Max Baer, a Canadian and native of Coburg, Ont.

Mr. Moore states that Mr. Raine plans to leave Seattle for Hollywood next week to write the scenario.

WRITERS LACK POLISH

On his present trip to the Coast, Mr. Moore is searching for new publishing material and new authors. The number of writers to make their mark is comparatively small, he explained in an interview to-day. The average writer does not take enough care with his writing. The stories lack style and polish, he said.

U.S. Prohibition Inquiry Brings Many to Trial

Baltimore, Md., July 21.—As a climax to the largest and costliest prohibition investigation ever undertaken, fifty-three corporations and individuals to-day stood indicted with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Return of the indictments by the Federal Grand Jury yesterday, naming persons in New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Michigan and Ohio, brought to an end the investigation started in August, 1929, following the seizure here of three huge stills.

The inquiry was reported to have cost the government $500,000.

Included in those indicted are the United States Industrial Alcohol Company and its subsidiary, the United States Chemical Company of West Virginia and Maryland, said to be the largest industrial alcohol company in the country.

Committee of Seven-power Conference Reported to Have Made Important Decision

Conferees in Plenary Session in British Capital to Hear Report To-morrow

Ottawa, July 21.—Possibility of Parliament may prorogue at the end of this week has become more remote. The general feeling is the session will not end before the middle of next week, and some predictions place the date as late as the end of July.

Much depends on the course of the Beauharnois investigation. After the events of the last few days in the special Commons committee inquiring into the project, it is impossible to say when some new revelation may open additional fields for examination.

COMMISSION PLAN

The committee to-day continued to delve into the financial details surrounding Beauharnois. Consideration must be given the possibility that a royal commission may carry on the work of the committee during the parliamentary recess. Even if the evidence is concluded in the next day or so, a report must be prepared. Then the report will be presented to the Commons and will entail a debate the length of which is hard to predict.

Aside from Beauharnois there are several rather contentious matters left on the legislative slate, including the report of the committee which went into salaries of Canadian National Railway officials, the government's plan to aid technical education, and unemployment-relief.

Ottawa, July 21.—Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was recalled to the stand briefly this afternoon when the special Commons committee investigating the Beauharnois project reconvened.

ATTITUDE OF SIFTON
 Evidence of the opposition of the late W. B. Sifton to having the Sifton name connected with Beauharnois was one of the interesting details in this forenoon's session of the inquiry. The committee room was again crowded and Senator W. L. McDougall of Montreal was on the stand throughout the forenoon hearing.

Sir Clifford had been very angry, Senator McDougall told the committee, that his son-in-law, Sifton, had gone into Beauharnois. "He did not want the Sifton name to be connected with it," said the witness.

HELD SHARES
 While a member of a Senate committee investigating the navigation and power possibilities of the St. Lawrence River, Senator McDougall was interested financially in the Beauharnois project. He possessed shares in the Beauharnois Company and, in addition, was a partner of R. A. C. Henry in the Sterling Industrial Corporation which had filed a prior application for power rights in the St. Lawrence area, the Senator stated.

DOUGHTY PART INTERESTS
 Four months after the National Advisory Board, of which he was a member, recommended that private agencies develop the power rights along the St. Lawrence, Senator McDougall purchased his first shares in the Beauharnois project. He bought in May, 1928, 800 part interests from the late W. B. Sifton, at that time a lawyer engaged by the Beauharnois Company.

After questioning by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and chairman of the committee, Senator McDougall said his statement to the Senate that he had joined Beauharnois in October, 1928, was "ambiguous, but it was not wrong." He had become a member of the Beauharnois project syndicate when he purchased the Sifton shares, but he had only become active in the project in October, the Senator explained.

Sensor McDougall, the only witness this forenoon, was scheduled to continue his evidence at the afternoon sitting, starting at 8 o'clock.

McDOUGALL ON STAND
 OTTAWA, July 21.—Scores of people jammed the railway committee room of the Commons this forenoon when the Parliamentary inquiry into the Beauharnois project resumed. In addition to Senators and members of the Commons, many prominent men and women of Ottawa were present, turned by the sensational nature of the inquiry since it opened over a month ago.

Sensor W. L. McDougall of Montreal, who was on the stand about two hours yesterday, was the first witness called to-day by Peter White, K.C., committee counsel. Turning to the purchase of Beauharnois stock from

"you discussed with Henry the question of the Sifton shares."
 "No, I did not discuss what his answers should be."
 "Before the committee was set up, you prepared questions to be put to Henry, is that correct?"
 "That is correct. I also prepared questions for the others. I wanted to have these men bring out evidence and be in a position to answer specific questions they were asked."
KNOW OPINIONS
 He knew the general opinions of all the witnesses he brought before the committee, Senator McDougall told the chairman. Most of them had been on record several times before.

What about Henry? Did you know his mind? asked Chairman Gordon. "He had worked out the economics of the scheme from a transportation angle," replied Senator McDougall. "I was interested primarily in the navigation scheme, particularly from the viewpoint of the railways, the Senator added. He had prepared a report on the National Advisory Commission in which he showed the deepening of the St. Lawrence would result in a three-cent lower water rate for grain. "I was not for power at all that I brought Henry there," declared Senator McDougall.

"I suggest to you Henry was more interested in power than in navigation," said Mr. White.
 "I do not think so," replied the Senator.

HOW IT READS
 "That is what I read from his evidence, but perhaps I do not understand English."
 "Well, I do," countered Senator McDougall. "The object was to bring out information on the St. Lawrence and that was what I was trying to do."
 Chairman Gordon: The order of reference referred to power. You were interested in the navigation committee? Witness: Yes.
 Lieut.-Col. T. H. Lennox: When the report was made on January 11, 1928, you were interested in the Sterling Company? Witness: Yes.

BY PRIVATE INTERESTS
 Mr. White then read the minutes of the committee, which said its chief concern was the national aspects of the development scheme. In the national section of the St. Lawrence, development of power might be a matter for negotiation, it was stated, and then it was added: "We believe in a reasonable time the development of the (national or) St. Lawrence section will develop private interests."

"What the committee had in mind," explained Senator McDougall, "was some company, for instance the Montreal Light, Heat & Power, would be willing to take the canalization in return for the power rights."
 "And all this time," suggested Mr. White, "you were interested in a private company, the 600-foot canal being built under an agreement by which it might be used for navigation in return for power rights?"

FOR APPROVAL
 "I was interested in a project which was a charter from Quebec and which had come to Ottawa for approval of its plans," countered Senator McDougall.

Mr. White then read from a statement delivered before the Senate committee by Senator McDougall. This said the senator was taken from the report of the National Advisory Board of which he had been a member. "It was a good report and I believed the committee should know about it," explained the senator.
 Mr. White read extracts from the examination of Mr. Henry by Senator McDougall before the Senate committee. A question was: "In your opinion, was the Beauharnois project a syndicate?" "The Beauharnois project was as soon as possible, and if so, why?"
 On May 20, 1931, said the chairman, Senator McDougall had admitted the Senate on a question of privilege and had declared that up to April, 1928, he had been many times invited to join the Beauharnois project. According to his statement, he had only joined Beauharnois in October, 1928.

BECAME ACTIVE
 "That was not a correct statement," asked Mr. Gordon. "You had already bought from Sifton?"
 "I only became active in October," the witness replied. "I was in the syndicate before, but..."
 Chairman Gordon—Of course you were in the syndicate. I suggest your statement to the Senate was absolutely wrong.

Sensor McDougall—It might have been ambiguous, but it was not wrong. Mr. Gordon—While you were making this ambiguous statement you were in the Sterling syndicate?
 Before the committee he drew the attention of Senator McDougall to Mr. Henry's statement that the latter intended to "take care of Henry and McDougall."
 Senator McDougall—I am not responsible for what Henry said. I had nothing in my mind at that time. Sterling was quite dormant at that time.

Chairman Gordon—You were a partner with Henry.
 Senator McDougall—I financed him. If that is being a partner, yes. If that is being a partner, yes.

"Did you suggest the merger between the Sterling and Beauharnois?" asked Mr. White.
 "Yes, I thought it would be in the best interests of both. I wanted Henry to stay with the organization."

"Did you not think you could have got him into Beauharnois at $40,000 a year?"
 The senator said he was talking about Henry as a man, and not as an official in government circles that he was financially interested. He had never spoken to any one in the government about it. He had received an agreement from Winfield Sifton, head of the Montreal Trust, relating to the "million dollar deal" between the senator and the Montreal Trust Company. A block of 3,000 part-interests was purchased by Senator McDougall, financed by the trust company.

Sensor McDougall was unable to remember with whom the details of this scheme had been arranged. He presumed it was with Mr. Donaldson, the manager.
 "Do you mean to tell this committee you made a million-dollar deal and do not say with whom?" asked Mr. White.
 It was arranged, said the senator, that he should purchase two 1,000 blocks of part-interests in Beauharnois. The Montreal Trust placed to his credit in the Royal Bank, Montreal, the necessary credit, against which certified cheques were issued.

MADE NO PROFIT
 "I do not think this transaction has been a success. I made no profit from it," declared the senator when Mr. White pressed for further details.
 "I will ask the committee to direct you to answer my questions," said Mr. White.

"I cannot recall definitely who directed me," began the senator.
 "I ask you: With whom in the trust company did you make that deal?" pursued Mr. White.
 "I acted on the instructions," "By whom?"
 "I do not know," replied Senator McDougall. "I do not know where the shares are or who owns them."
 It was suggested by Mr. White the shares are owned by Mr. Godin, a director of Beauharnois. He believed this to be correct, admitted Senator McDougall.

DISARMAMENT VIEWS OF FRANCE ARE STATED

Paris, July 21.—In a twenty-eight-page document outlining the French view on disarmament, the government today asserted that since the League of Nations covenant came into force France, or her own accord, had proceeded to reduce her armaments, but always in view of her pecuniary and geographical situation, and bearing in mind that she had been invaded three times in the last century.

Douglas. "The trust company financed me," he added.
 "Because they had arranged with Mr. Godin?"
 "I think so."
 "In view of your former statements do you wish to leave it at that?" asked Mr. White.

PRICE PER SHARE
 Mr. White produced a statement of the amount of money invested in Beauharnois by the various shareholders.

It showed the other members of the first syndicate had paid an average of $90 a share, while Senator Raymond and P. P. Jones had paid $37.50. That also was the price paid by Senator McDougall.

"In view of that," said Mr. White, "do you wish to adhere to the statement you made in the Senate that you paid dollar for dollar with the others?"
 "I suggest that referring to the St. B. Griffith that he was going in on the same basis as the other members of the syndicate," said the witness.

"And I suggest you were the last member of the first syndicate," Mr. White continued.
 "I know nothing about the inner workings of the syndicate," replied the Senator.

"I suggest you were the last member of the first syndicate," Mr. White continued.
 "I know nothing about the inner workings of the syndicate," replied the Senator.

2,000 UNITS
 Reverting to the matter of the Montreal Trust Company's purchase of 2,000 part-interests, the chairman asked Senator McDougall:

"There were 2,000 part-interests involved," he said. "One thousand had belonged to Sifton and 1,000 to you. How were they applied to the syndicate for them?"

"I know nothing about that," was the reply.
 "You said you paid for them," Senator McDougall said I got the option from Sifton and Dufresne in July, 1929. I took up that option and he paid out two cheques, each for $500,000.

"Where the part-interests paid up?"
 "Yes."
 "The records of the syndicate show that they were applied for by H. B. Griffith," continued the chairman.

"They were issued in his name and he paid for them, and that after payment of the expenses of Mr. King, then Prime Minister of Canada, and Senator W. L. McDougall during the trip which the two took to Bermuda two years ago was issued by Senator McDougall."

This cheque covered hotel expenses at Bermuda, railway fares and hotel expenses at New York.
 The matter came up when Mr. White, committee counsel, was examining Senator McDougall on vouchers for expenses in connection with various trips the senator had made on behalf of Beauharnois.

Counsel was asked by Robert Gardiner, U.P.A. Acadia, if he had the Bermuda voucher. There were rumors about the House, he said, that the trip had been financed by Beauharnois. If so, he asked Mr. White to produce it.

Mr. White thereupon brought out the voucher for the expenses of the trip, covering the expenses of "self and Mackenzie King."

"That was $852.32 included in the cheque issued on June 13, 1930, paid by Beauharnois," asked Mr. White.
 "I have found out that it was," the senator replied.

Sensor McDougall said he had not intended the cost of the Bermuda trip to be included in the expense account to the Beauharnois Syndicate. Through an error on the part of the secretary the sum had been placed on the bill to the company. Senator McDougall assured the committee Mr. King had no knowledge of the expense account.

Learning of the mistake recently, Senator McDougall declared he mailed a cheque to the Beauharnois Company for the $852.32 on July 16 last.

TRIP AND FARE
 Itemized the voucher provided for payment of $288.53 for hotel services at Bermuda, $168.75 for hotels at New York and $95.04 for steamship and railway fares.

"May I tell that my own way," said the Senator.
 "Was that $852.32 included in the cheque issued on June 13, 1930, paid by Beauharnois?" asked Mr. White.

"I have since found out it was," the Senator said.
 He had been in hospital in February, the Senator continued, and had gone to Florida. There he received a telegram from Mr. King saying the then Prime Minister was going to Bermuda with Senator Haydon and for McDougall to join them. The witness said he had come to Canada and met Mr. King, who was going to Bermuda with Senator Haydon and for McDougall to join them.

The witness said he had come to Canada and met Mr. King, who was going to Bermuda with Senator Haydon and for McDougall to join them. The witness said he had come to Canada and met Mr. King, who was going to Bermuda with Senator Haydon and for McDougall to join them.

When Mr. King arrived there had been no discussion about the rooms. When he had left the hotel, the witness said he had paid the three bills. He had given his personal cheque. The amount had been $645.69. He did not tell Mr. King or Senator Haydon he had paid their accounts. When Mr. King and Senator Haydon returned to the hotel for $56, for which he had sent his personal cheque.

Later, said Senator McDougall, he had received a supplementary bill from the hotel for $56, for which he had sent his personal cheque.

INFERENCE DENIED
 During yesterday afternoon's sitting of the committee Senator McDougall denied he had ever used his influence after Beauharnois bought out Sterling and the securing of a concession from the council assuring rights to Beauharnois. He believed he would still have received the 3,000 units in the Beauharnois syndicate for the sale of the Sterling even if he had not been a Canadian senator.

Compilation of the profits made by Senator McDougall out of his connection with Beauharnois established that

DUTY VALUES OF PEACHES AND PLUMS ARE SET

Ottawa, July 21.—The value for duty purposes on peaches has been fixed at 4 1/2 cents a pound, and plums and prunes at 5 1/2 cents a pound. The announcement was made by the Minister of National Revenue to-day.

These prices are to apply to goods entered under the intermediate or general tariff, the weight of the packages to be included.

From a total expenditure of $200,000 the Senator had received $780,000 and 208,000 class A shares in the company. Witness insisted his Beauharnois investment totaled $190,000, made up of part-interests at $100 a unit. He denied to Mr. White that the $100,000 he had advanced to Mr. Henry in order the latter should investigate the power possibilities of the St. Lawrence section of the St. Lawrence should be included as his investment in Beauharnois.

On May 24, 1928, Mr. Geoffrion wrote Senator McDougall "a long letter," said Mr. White.

"I have no such letters," said the Senator. "I cannot recall any such letter being written to me."
 Officers of Mr. Geoffrion's law firm were asked to produce a copy.

INTERVIEW WITH SENATOR
 Turning to the bill rendered to Beauharnois by Col. A. T. Thompson of Ottawa, Mr. White said an entry dated March 15, 1928, read: "Important suggestion by Senator McDougall."

"I suggest that referring to the St. B. Griffith that he was going in on the same basis as the other members of the syndicate," said the witness.

"And I suggest you were the last member of the first syndicate," Mr. White continued.
 "I know nothing about the inner workings of the syndicate," replied the Senator.

"I suggest you were the last member of the first syndicate," Mr. White continued.
 "I know nothing about the inner workings of the syndicate," replied the Senator.

INITIALS USED
 It was his general policy not to put in the name, replied Col. Thompson. It was not unusual to designate such entries by initials.

This eventually was true, commented Mr. White, because in Col. Thompson's handwriting the initials "S.M." were used. "Hon. Mr. P." "Mr. M.P." leading western member, and "Mr. D.M.P."

Although a model map of the Beauharnois project was before the Senate committee, Senator McDougall refused the application of Beauharnois.

"Would it not have been in the best interests of Canada if I had with-drawn the application of the Sterling company?" asked Mr. White.

"That would not have affected Canada," countered Senator McDougall. When the chairman pointed out the sale of the Sterling Company to Beauharnois for a "nuisance" value, meant paying dividends on 8,000 shares of stock, the Senator agreed with him.

"And you received $300,000 in cash in addition?" asked Mr. White.
 "That is correct," replied Senator McDougall.

$30,000 BASIS OF COURT HEARING
 Canadian Press
 Vancouver, July 21.—The arrest here yesterday by city police of H. H. Stone-man was made on complaint of A. Forbes, Cobble Hill, Vancouver Island, that he was the victim of "bunco" men.

Stoneman is charged with false pretences, but F. G. T. Lucas, K.C., in charge of the prosecution, is contemplating an additional charge. The case is scheduled for hearing before Magistrate C. L. Fillmore on a date to be set.

John A. Sutherland has been retained for the defence.
 An acquaintance two years ago with two Americans cost him $90,000, Forbes alleges.

FIRE AT CHEMINUS
 Special to The Times
 Cheminus, July 21.—Fire broke out early yesterday morning in the bake-house of Beaveridge Brothers and was promptly subdued by the volunteer fire brigade and nearby residents.

A Beaveridge sustained burned hands when trying to quell the fire before assistance arrived. The outbreak was confined to the bakehouse.

LEARNED FACTS FROM NOMADS
 He said the tribe had been found by an expedition under the leadership of Sir William Simpson of the Royal Society of Tropical Research. Dr. Torrance was assigned to one sector of the Sahara and through numerous contacts with nomads learned of the tribe's existence.

One of the aims of the expedition he explained, was to find remedies for the cure of sleeping sickness.

IMPROVEMENTS EFFECTED AT LOCAL HOTEL

Stephen Jones, proprietor of a Dominion Hotel, announced improvements recently effected, including installation of a coffee shop as an adjunct to the dining-room service. An elevated counter with high-tiled base has been built at the rear of the dining room, a feature which are the comfortably back chair seats, which, by a special patented process, automatically maintain a correct position facing the service area.

The dining room has been completely redecorated to conform with work done in other parts of the hotel.

BETTER PUBLICATIONS
 In discussing the proposed duty of magazines published in the United States, Mr. Moore reiterated his statement that the Canadian public had not had any hand in the Canadian Government's decision to increase its tax.

Should the magazine tax become effective in September, he said, the Canadian publishers, and particular MacLean's, would extend their publications and give the Canadian reader full value for their money.

"There will be no holding back of the reading public," he remarked. "We do not propose to sit still and take the loss of the tax, but we will give the readers a much larger and more expensive type of publication."

ROMANCE HERE
 Mr. Moore has a warm place in his heart for Victoria, for it was in this city that he was introduced to Miss Whitley. The romance culminated here and consequently Mr. and Mrs. Moore look upon Victoria as the most beautiful city in the Dominion. Mr. Moore is here to-day with his wife, Mrs. Moore, and other stage production.

Before returning to Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Moore will make a trip to Alaska, sailing from Vancouver on Thursday at the St. Prince Henry.

EXPLORERS FIND LOST TRIBE IN SOUTHERN REGION OF SAHARA

Their history, he said, must date back thousands and thousands of years. What they eat, what they wear, how they live, how they are governed except for the nomads' iron hand must, he said, remain secret.

Explorers could overcome the hostility of desert tribes by kindness, medicine and education.

Dr. Torrance based his revised theory of the origin of an extensive investigation of primitive tribes and geological history in the Sahara.

"This Lost Tribe," he said, "has been pursued back from civilization by the hostile desert, and has remained in outer world has heard nothing from them. They must have been at one time in history a part of the band called Irania of the Asiatic division of this people."

TROTZKY SAYS SOVIET LEADERS ARE ZIGZAGGING

But When Change Comes
Trotzkists Will Be in Combative Positions

By FRISCHILLA KING,
Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Moda, Turkey, July 21.—For the first time in almost two years Leon Trotsky has unlocked the iron gates of his retreat to an interviewer.

He received an Associated Press correspondent in his small wooden villa at Moda, an Asiatic suburb of Istanbul and a favorite summer resort of the Anglo-Saxon colony.

At a long table covered with manuscripts sits Trotsky. He would scarcely be recognized as the man who slipped out of the Soviet embassy's semi-prison into the public eye three years ago.

He is ruddier and more elastic and his face reflects humor rather than bitterness. The heaviness and sallow-ness are gone.

Trotsky shouts out cordial greetings in French with some English. "How are you?" and "All right?" thrown in. He reads English easily, but prefers not to talk it.

First stipulating that his declarations were to be published word for word or not at all, he attacked the questions which, at his request, had been sent in advance.

"You have asked me a number of very complicated questions concerning the interior development of the Soviet Union," he said. "To answer these questions seriously and conscientiously it would be necessary to write several articles."

"Within the space of an interview it is impossible to give an analysis of the complicated process which form the contents of the present transitional economic system of the Soviet Union, a system which constitutes a bridge between capitalism and socialism."

"You know that ordinarily I avoid interviews, especially because they too easily give rise to misunderstandings even if they are absolutely loyal transmitted. In fact this abstention from interviews as shown by my recent experience does not ensure one against most serious misunderstandings and misstatements."

"During the past weeks a dispatch passed through the world press which attributed to me some opinions directly opposed to those which I have espoused and defended."

"The enemies of the Soviet regime, at least the most odious and least perceptive, expected after my expulsion from the Soviet Union hostile actions on my part against the regime hated by them. They were mistaken and there only remains for them to take refuge in falsifications, relying on credulity and bad faith."

"I use the opportunity of the questions asked by you to declare again my relations to the Soviet regime have not vacillated even an iota since the days when I participated in its creation."

"The fight which I carry on together with my friends and my closest cothinkers within the Communist ranks does not touch the general question of socialism but the methods of the realization of the tasks imposed by the October Revolution."

IN FRONT LINE

"If those at Warsaw and Bucharest hope the interior difficulties of the Soviet Union can reflect the tendency represented by me in the camp of the 'defeatists' of the Soviet Union they are truly mistaken as well as their more powerful inspirers."

"In the moment of danger the so-called 'Trotzkists' (opposition of the left) will fill the most combative positions as they did during the years of the civil war."

ZIGZAG COURSE

"You asked whether the new course proclaimed in the recent speech of Stalin signifies a turning toward the road of capitalism. No. For such a conclusion I find no basis."

"We have before us a zigzag along the road from capitalism to socialism. Taken in part it is a zigzag of retreat. It is indubitable that the present zigzags to the right have been caused by previous faults in direction and signify an inevitable transitory reinforcement of bourgeois forces and tendencies in the country.

"However, to conserve state property on land, and especially on essential means of production, it does signify in any case a regeneration of capitalism. Such a regeneration is in general impossible without a forced establishment of private ownership of the means of production which would necessitate the victory of a counter-revolution."

FREE ACTIVITY

"By this I do not want at all to deny there are certain political dangers connected with the new turning. The fight against these dangers should consist in this, namely, to regenerate the political free activity of the masses suppressed by the bureaucratic regime of Stalin."

"Precisely along this line the principal efforts of the opposition of the left are now directed. Once the regeneration of the Soviets, the trade unions and the party is established the opposition of the left will take naturally and inevitably its place in the common ranks."

"You ask me my own plans. I am working now on the second volume of 'The History of the Russian Revolution.' The more extensive extracts of the first volume are now being published."

AGE PENSIONS
BILL IS BEFORE THE COMMONS

Federal Contribution 75 Per Cent; King Suggests Conference

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 21.—The federal treasury will absorb three-quarters of the cost of the old age pension scheme, under a bill given first reading in the Commons yesterday. It was based on a resolution to this effect which passed the House unanimously after a prolonged discussion.

Forecasting the day when the Dominion would shoulder 100 per cent of the pension scheme, Premier Bennett said the seventy-five per cent bill was merely a step in that direction.

CONFERENCE SUGGESTED

The people of Canada, said Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, judging by the Prime Minister's election speeches, had expected an immediate action on the pension scheme. Mr. King, per-100 per cent scheme, Mr. King, per-100 per cent scheme, Mr. King, per-

Hunt Rabbits But Find Gold

Yakima, Wash., July 21.—Nuggets of ore found by Robert Rosenkranz and Charles Lease in a 320-acre crater north of Zillah while they were hunting jack rabbits contained 45 grains of gold, Seattle assayers reported yesterday.

Reports from Zillah said several hundred persons had staked out claims at the scene, but none of them seemed inclined to spend money in development.

IMMIGRATION ESTIMATES ARE VOTED BY HOUSE

Ottawa, July 21.—Colonization within Canada was being promoted by the Dominion in an effort to place on farms unemployed workers, said Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, addressing the Commons yesterday evening. Since last fall 1,000 single men and 700 families had been located on suitable farms. The railways were gathering facts relating to available farm lands and were co-operating in the "back to the land" movement, he said.

In a final spurt before adjournment at 11 p.m., the House passed all estimates of the Immigration Department and several items in the Department of Labor estimates.

APPOINTMENTS DISCUSSED

Ottawa, July 21.—The Commons yesterday afternoon gave first reading to a private bill sponsored by Onésime Gagnon, Conservative, Dorchester, Que., which would remove from the jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission the appointment of such officials as junior postmasters, customs officers and others in the outside service positions. He said it was amazing three men in Ottawa should select postmasters over the head of the member of the constituency involved. There was no discussion on the first reading.

POLICE AND PLANES HUNT WISCONSIN BANK ROBBERS

Associated Press

Green Bay, Wis., July 21.—A band of robbers, carrying machine guns, held up the South Side State Bank here yesterday, obtained $5,000 in loot and escaped in two automobiles after wounding two police officers and slugging several bank employees and customers.

Their escape was made after a gun fight with the police in business streets, and in spite of pursuit by two airplanes, mounted with machine guns, which took off quickly to pick up the robbers' train from the air.

While only three men entered the bank, authorities believed two or more were waiting in automobiles.

The police were called while the holdup was in progress. As the police car pulled up in front of the bank it was sprayed with bullets from a machine gun fired from a sedan. Detective Martin Burke and Chief Hawley returned the fire, wounding one man who had jumped from the sedan.

The three men ran from the bank and jumped into the sedan. Heading out of town to the southwest, the sedan, witnesses said, was preceded by another car.

When the men entered the bank, Frank V. Slupinski, assistant cashier, four employees and three customers were ordered to lie on the floor, but were clubbed severely in spite of their willingness to obey.

Chief Hawley was cut by flying glass when bullets punctured the car. Detective De Lora was shot in the left eye and in the left arm. Physicians said his condition to-day was serious. Burke was cut about the head by glass, but continued the investigation before he went to a hospital.

Shortly after the robbery, Officer Denamur took off in a plane to search for the cars. Later another plane, with Fire Chief Ralph Drum, an artillery officer in the World War, aboard, joined the search.

LABOR-FARMER GROUP CONDEMNS BENNETT PLANS

Winnipeg, July 21.—In the opinion of delegates to the convention of the Ukrainian Labor Farmer Association here "the Bennett government has provided nothing in its budget for the unemployed workers." The opinion was expressed in a resolution passed yesterday evening. It said Premier Bennett's budget had been rightly termed by workers "a starvation budget."

Protest was voiced against imprisonment of unemployed leaders in Calgary following a demonstration of out-of-work men. Their immediate release will be requested of the Attorney-General of Alberta.

U.S. CITIZEN IS HELD IN CHINA AFTER SHOOTING

Associated Press

Shanghai, July 21.—Chinese authorities at Tchow, Shantung province, to-day arrested Dr. Francis F. Tucker, treasurer of the William S. Porter Memorial Hospital, operated at Tchow by the American Board of Missions, and conveyed him to Tainan, where they refused to hand him over to the United States consul.

The arrest resulted from the fatal shooting last week by Dr. Tucker of a native hospital employee. Dr. Tucker fired at the man in the belief he was a burglar.

The Kuomintang in the Tchow district immediately demanded execution of Dr. Tucker, suspension of the activities of the mission, an apology from the minister and payment of an indemnity to the family of the dead man.

Dr. Tucker, following a series of burglaries at the hospital, kept a revolver under his pillow on a cot in his office. The United States consul at Tainan reported. Last Saturday evening he was awakened by a skeleton key. The intruder started to flee when Dr. Tucker awoke and opened fire.

Legation officials said any effort to bring Dr. Tucker to trial in the Chinese courts would be vigorously opposed.

Belgian Official Killed By Congo Cannibal Group

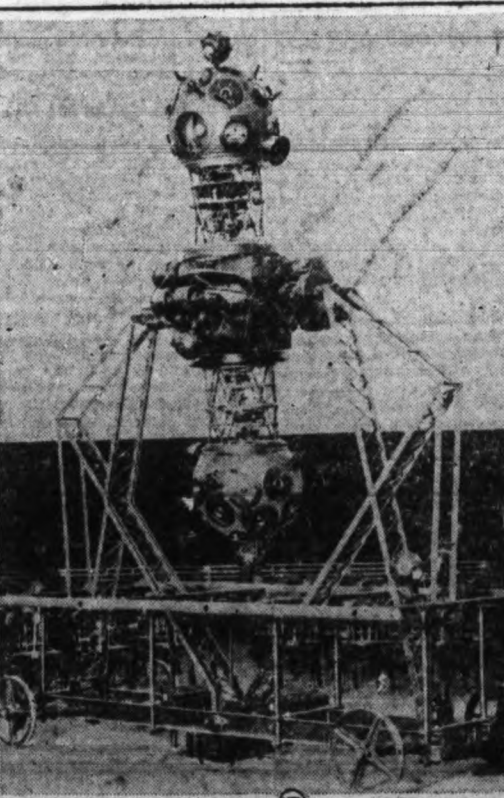

Capetown, Union of South Africa, July 21.—Dispatches to the newspaper Die Burger by way of Johannesburg and Elisabethville to-day said a cannibal tribe near Leopoldville had killed and eaten M. Mallot, the Belgian district commissioner of Leopoldville.

Mallot, the dispatches said, protested against an assault on the stockkeeper at a village near Leopoldville and natives said to be of the Rapendi tribe captured him. Later they attacked the Kikui administrators, who were saved only by timely arrival of police who killed seven natives before driving them off. In subsequent encounters fifty were killed by machine-gun fire.

Fire Damages Vancouver Home

Vancouver, July 21.—A fire of mysterious origin broke out yesterday evening in the unoccupied home of D. Palmer, Vancouver real estate dealer, Elm Street. Mr. Palmer and his family left for Mexico a few days ago. The fire apparently started in the pantry and caused considerable damage to it and the kitchen. Police were forced to break in a door to gain entrance.

"EYE" SEES 6,500 STARS AT ONCE

This queer-looking "eye" known as a planetarium, which projects 6,500 stars at one time regardless of weather conditions, is to be placed in the Benjamin Franklin Memorial and Institute at Philadelphia. The planetarium will be housed in a chamber sixty-five feet in diameter shaped like a hemisphere which will be lined with white fabric. The instrument will project 6,500 images on this fabric at once while a lecturer explains to the audience by means of an electrical pointer the names and positions of the stars and planets.

HERE IS STORY BEHIND STORY OF WORLD FLIGHT

NEW YORK, July 21.—Wiley Post, the iron-nerved Oklahoman who piloted the Winnie Mae on her epochal world-girdling flight, is a fatalist.

He fears nothing—not even death. Face to face with the grim reality of pushing forward across the bleak and almost uncharted wastes of land and could crawl into Post's cockpit in case of an emergency. Air roaring back from the propeller would have blown him off into space—and eternity—if he had attempted it. Anyway, Gatty, although considered one of the most expert navigators, has had practically no experience as a pilot. He hasn't even soloed.

Post, however, was confident that if the Winnie Mae was to stay aloft, he could do everything possible alone. In his years of flying he has piloted all kinds of crates, some of them weaving, ramshackle ships that only an expert could have flown.

And when he was presented with the Lockheed-Vega monoplane by Hall with the comment "Go ahead, Wiley," he was supremely sure he would succeed. It was like being given a Rolls-Royce to drive after operating a rattling flivver for years.

Kirsch explains that extra precautions were taken in greasing the motor. The valve accessories were given double shots of grease and all moving parts, even those which moved slowly, were smeared with extra doses of lubrication. All oil lines were checked and rechecked to prevent possibility of a leak and the motor oil gauges were so attached the slightest fall in pressure would be recorded.

UTMOST CARE TAKEN
The gasoline tanks were even insulated at points of contact with the plane. This was done to eliminate the possibility of friction making a hole, with a resultant loss of precious gasoline.

Kirsch laughed at reports the motor was "overhauled" at different points along the route. He explains it was merely serviced, greased and spark plugs changed. Post, an expert mechanic himself, knew exactly how the motor was operating.

"Why, before he left, Wiley declared he wouldn't touch the motor as long as it was running all right," says water of the northern Pacific, he was not afraid. His philosophy is that it was all determined in advance. If he failed—he failed. If he died—he died so be it.

As he and Harold Gatty zoomed away from Siberia over the seas where ships are almost never seen, Post had his plan all made. If fate decreed that the motor should die and force them to descend on the ocean, he knew exactly what he would do.

"If that should happen I am set to nose her down and end it all with a dive straight into the water," he had said. "None of this hours of struggling and living-death for me. I know what it means to drop in the ocean there."

This unusual quirk in Post's make-up was revealed for the first time to-day by Stanley W. Kirsch of Morristown, Conn., mechanic who prepared the plane's Wasp engine for what has been the most grueling test in aviation history.

MEN BEHIND THE SCENES
F. C. Hall, wealthy Oklahoma oil operator who backed the flight, and Kirsch are the two men "behind the scenes" who played leading parts in making the world flight possible. Kirsch has known Post intimately for years.

Nothing worried Post. Not even before the flight. Gatty lost fifteen pounds while waiting for the day of the take-off at Roosevelt Field. They lived in a hotel at Mineola, seldom going out except to visit the field. Post usually flopped down in a chair and rested and when other visitors suggested he go out and get some exercise, Post shrugged his shoulders and said: "What do I need of exercise? I'm tough enough now. All I want is plenty of rest and if I get that we'll go around the old globe all right."

He is a man like that. As Kirsch was going over the Winnie Mae's motor one day, examining every part as carefully as a watchmaker, he happened to find a slight defect in a magnet. He pointed it out to Post.

"Ye-ah," said the Oklahoman, "I see it. You found it O.K. and if you hadn't we might have taken a nose-dive into the ocean. It's fate you found it, but I appreciate it."

He gripped Kirsch's hand.

STARTER REMOVED
The accident at Solomon Beach, Alaska, in which Gatty was struck by a whirling propeller was directly related to preparing the plane for the flight, Kirsch explains. The starter was taken off to lighten the ship as much as possible and it was thus necessary to twirl the propeller by hand.

The plane in general had standard equipment. A directional gyro, operated by Gatty, the expert navigator, in case compasses and other instruments failed to function properly.

A speaking tube from Gatty to Post was installed so they could converse while in the air. An auxiliary wire with an attachment for transferring notes between the two was put in to be used if the speaking tube got out of order.

There was no possible way Gatty

F. C. HALL

Kirsch. "And what he did proves his judgment was right, doesn't it?"

Hall naturally is elated at the success of the flight. He gave Post his first real job as a flyer, driving his private plane, and since then has sunk $100,000 in endurance flights that haven't turned out very well, he admits. Of medium size and unassuming, Hall has been confident from the start that Post and Gatty would succeed.

He never knew Gatty until Post insisted that Gatty was the man for the job of navigator.

Hall admits now that Post "promoted" him into sponsoring the flight. The former oil well driller was so enthusiastic about beating all records around the globe, Hall at last yielded and bought the Winnie Mae. And the rest is history.

Cyrus H. Eaton Quits Youngstown

Youngstown, O., July 21.—Cyrus H. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist who sponsored the bitter fight against the proposed merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, yesterday resigned as director and member of the executive committee of Sheet and Tube. It was announced at the company's offices.

OTTAWA TURNS BEAR ON WHEAT

After Experts Have Been Bulls During Two Years' Decline, They Now See No Hope

Ottawa, July 21.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics says in a report reviewing the world wheat situation to-day that "the opinions of most competent trade observers incline to a bearish viewpoint for the summer months."

Prospects of a large carryover in exporting countries, with harvest of the new crop proceeding pending over most of Europe, dispels any danger of a short supply in the immediate future, the report continues. The Bureau further points out Germany, France and Italy have added further restrictions against importation of foreign wheat.

Dealing with the Canadian situation, the report says that despite beneficial rains at the end of June and in the first half of July, the wheat crop has still the prospect of returning the lowest average yield per acre in the twenty-four years of official records.

EXPECT STEEL MERGER

New York, July 21.—Rumors were quickly revived in Wall Street that the merger of the Youngstown Steel and Tube Co. with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, would be completed, on news that Cyrus H. Eaton had resigned from the directorate and the executive committee of Sheet and Tube. Comment was not available from Bethlehem officials.

FARMING FARMERS

Washington, July 21.—"If all the farm organization secretaries were to come to Washington in a body and form into a procession and pass, four abreast, in review before the capitol, the parade would be hours in passing," said Alexander Legge, former chairman of the Farm Board.

URGE CURB ON HUNTERS

Bismarck, N.D., July 21.—Conservation officials of four states and Manitoba meeting here voted to urge a thirty-day hunting season for migratory birds in the United States and Canada. Meeting to consider steps for protection of waterfowl being depleted because drought has eliminated many breeding grounds, they said such a limitation, to thirty continuous days, would help what they deem is an emergency.

Representatives of the Dakotas, Montana, Minnesota and Manitoba were here. They received word that Canadian officials meeting at Edmonton went on record similarly. The conference also favored a bag limit of ten for ducks and a possession limit of twenty.

COST OF LIVING MUCH LOWER

U.S. Survey Shows Dollar Buys 25 Per Cent More To-day

Washington, July 21.—The city housewife seems to be "getting the breaks" from the low prices which are accompanying the depression. While the dollar in the family budget is below its prewar purchasing power, it now buys over 25 per cent more than five years ago. The department of labor averaged retail prices in fifty-one cities and found that when housewives went shopping for the dinner table on June 15, they found prices 2 per cent less than a month previous, and 20 per cent less than a year before. From June 15, 1930 to that date 1931, all fifty-one of the fifty-one cities included in the survey reported decreases ranging from 25 per cent in Springfield, Ill., to 15 per cent in Philadelphia.

The arrangements for the dance were in the capable hands of the J.B.A.A. committee, comprising Mr. T. D. Roberts (chairman), Mr. O. C. Walls, Mr. W. Erickson and Mr. and Mrs. McVane, the event proving a happy climax to the day's festivities.

BACHELOR JUDGE ON WIFE VALUE

Mr. Justice McCordie Scathing on Divorce Law Damage Assessment

Birmingham, Eng., July 21.—Mr. Justice McCordie, who is one of England's most well-known bachelors, offered some comment on the value of a wife in divorce proceedings at the Birmingham assizes. The judge remarked the husband had said his wife was a good housekeeper, clean and industrious. He thought it was a description one would give a domestic servant. "In arriving at the damages you have to assess the value of a woman as you would assess the state of a slave in some eastern parts of the world. To my mind it is one of the most unfortunate aspects of the divorce law in this country. The jury awarded the petitioner in the case £485 damages."

FAMOUS MAKER OF WIGS RETIRES

Willy Clarkson of London Closes Quaint Store After Sixty Years

London, July 21.—Willy Clarkson, the most famous maker of theatrical wigs in the world, is to close his quaint store in Wardour Street and retire. For sixty years or more Clarkson has been a purveyor of wigs and other "properties" for theatres all over the world. He is a Londoner, born in Wellington Street near the Lyceum Theatre, where his father carried on a theatrical purveyor's business before him. His father died when he was eleven, and Willy at once left school and began the life's work which has brought him into contact with every star of the English stage. His shop, with its fantastic medley of stage photographs, costumes and properties, suggests something of the range of his memories, which extend from the Victorian day when he regularly visited Windsor, Balmoral and Osborne House to "make up" the royal children for amateur theatricals. To-day he is under contract to supply the wigs for the production at every London theatre except three. Many people think that these wigs are supplied from stock. But in fact every one is made specially for the wearer, and each usually requires three or four careful fittings. He also acts as regular wigmaker and costumer for many country managers, including Francis Laidler. Every year Mr. Clarkson buys vast quantities of human hair, most of it from the remotest nooks of Central Europe, where the bobbing and shagging habit is almost unknown. He claims to have attended more first nights than any man in England, and has been to the theatre about three times a week for half a century.

Gorge—Sunday School Picnic—The Gorge Presbyterian Church will hold its annual Sunday school picnic tomorrow. Buses will leave the church at 10.15 o'clock and proceed to the Willow Beach, where sports and other attractions will be enjoyed.

WORKERS' CAMP SAVING DOLE

English Girl's Scheme Takes Twenty Men Off Dole For Six Weeks

Canadian Press

London, July 21.—Twenty men have been taken off the dole for six weeks by a scheme undertaken by Miss Bower of the Central Allotments Committee. Miss Bower, the daughter of Sir Graham Bower, of Droxford, Hampshire, explains her organization as follows: "It is a communal camp for single men which I have established at Wickham, Hampshire. It is conducted with the aid of a camp leader appointed by the Society of Friends. I made an arrangement with the Ministry of Labor to take twenty men off the dole for six weeks. They are aged between twenty and forty, and are employed by fourteen market gardeners in this district. They get 30s. 6d. a week, and live in my camp, at a cost to them not exceeding 18s. a week. "It is thought that similar self-supporting camp schemes for rural workers during the season could be undertaken in Devonshire, certain eastern counties and Herefordshire. "All camp equipment hired is paid for by the men, who work fifty-one hours a week, and get 6d. an hour overtime."

When approaching motherhood, factory "snags" agricultural workers are allowed four months' cessation from work and full pay; office workers are given three months.

A woman operator of a Moscow tramcar was asked how she liked the work in comparison to household duties. "I wouldn't go back to domestic drudgery," she said. "Why shouldn't I like this work? Here, we are able to do things and see the achievement of actual results. Besides, they like us on street cars. They consider us safer operators than men. My husband is at work all day. Why shouldn't I contribute also?"

"Our two children? They are being cared for by 'expert' nurses and are being educated in kindergartens under better advantages than we otherwise could provide for them. They are infinitely better off this way. My husband? He feels about it exactly as I do."

KEEP A MAID
Before she started her car, she explained that her salary is about eighty pounds per month (approximately $40) and that this, combined with her husband's income, permits them to maintain a maid to keep their home in order and prepare necessary meals.

Government figures show that in 1930, 2,975,283 women were engaged in productive work in the Soviet Union and that 107,000 took active part in political work. The addition of 1,600,000 women to this number is contemplated for 1931.

Hundreds now act as judges and assistants in court proceedings and many occupy positions of importance in various government departments.

WOMEN MILITIA
There are women militia, equivalent to municipal police, whose skirts alone distinguish them from their male companions. Uniforms, helmets, side-arms are the same. In Moscow, many women are operators and conductors on tramcars and autobuses. In the agricultural districts they are found not only in the fields but as drivers, and mechanics of tractors. In the factories and on large construction projects the picture is the same.

Two thousand women are engaged in manual labor at the great Dnieprostroi power project. During concrete operations on the dam, women members "shock brigades," the front-line troops of workers, outdid the male brigades completing their work.

The Soviets hold the theory that it is especially the duty of women master technique and they claim to have found this justified extensively by the example they set their male folk in their enthusiasm and will-work.

Discovery was made by Richard Louis, Mrs. Sellings' only son, by a previous marriage. Mrs. Sellings left for Calcutta on Sunday.

It is understood her son told the police his mother was in poor health and that she believed she had fainted immediately after turning on the gas, the oven, with the result she was asphyxiated.

SOVIET WOMEN ENTER RANKS OF MANUAL LABOR

Encouraged to Become Paid Workers While State Cares For Children

Moscow, July 21 (by Stanley P. Richardson, Associated Press).—Woman's role is becoming increasingly important in Soviet Russia's campaign for industrialization and agricultural development.

Due to the shortage of labor, which grows more acute as each additional stride is made toward fulfillment of the five-year plan, their services are being required more and more extensively, not only in various professions and clerical capacities, but as actual manual laborers.

In factories, in fields, in all forms of industrial and agricultural work, they are laboring side by side with the men, receiving the same pay and the same privileges for the same work.

NO DOMESTIC DRUDGERY

To encourage wider induction of women into the ranks of workers, the government is making special efforts to provide facilities for relieving them of all domestic drudgery. Extensive measures have been taken for the care of children in day nurseries and kindergartens. Communal dining-rooms are made available both to them and to the husband. Communal laundries also are provided.

When approaching motherhood, factory "snags" agricultural workers are allowed four months' cessation from work and full pay; office workers are given three months.

A woman operator of a Moscow tramcar was asked how she liked the work in comparison to household duties. "I wouldn't go back to domestic drudgery," she said. "Why shouldn't I like this work? GOOD CANNED GOODS

Summer is the season in which the camper and tourist hold sway throughout the length and breadth of the land. It is also the time of the year when, perhaps more than at any other, canned goods are in demand.

It is during this season that the "traveling and camping public come to realize the true worth to them of the commercial inspection service supervised by the fruit branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Under this service all canned products of field, orchard and farm are put up under close inspection, and each individual container in addition to conforming with a specific standard, is clearly marked with the true quality of the product it contains.

There are three grades of quality defined by statute. These are—"Fancy," which is the highest grade and as nearly perfect as possible; "Choice," which, while not quite so perfect in appearance, is as the term applies, a real good quality for the product; and "Standard," for use where appearance is not the principal consideration, and which provides high food value and good flavor at little cost.

Ten Thousand Witness Brilliant Pageant of History of Province

Magnificent Spectacle Presented by Over 500 Performers at Royal Athletic Park Yesterday High Light of Diamond Jubilee Celebrations; Notable Incidents Before and After Confederation Depicted With Fidelity of Detail

Before a crowd of spectators estimated at over ten thousand, the pageant depicting the history of British Columbia from the early days until the present time was staged at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening, the affair representing one of the most ambitious and spectacular undertakings of the kind ever witnessed in Victoria. Five hundred performers took part and for nearly three hours, under the direction of L. Campbell Basanta, a series of magnificent spectacles and thrilling episodes was unfolded before the interested thousands who filled the grandstands and availed themselves of every vantage point within the park.

Shortly after the pageant started His Honor the Administrator of British Columbia arrived, accompanied by Mrs. A. Macdonald and Miss Macdonald, Premier and Mrs. Tolmie and members of the cabinet, Mayor and Mrs. Anscomb, Reeve E. C. Hayward, Reeve W. Crouch, members of the City Council, George Jay, honorary chairman of the pageant committee, and Mrs. Jay, Reginald Hayward, M.P., the chairman, and Mrs. Hayward, Hon. G. A. Bucklin and Mrs. Bucklin, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart, Brigadier-General J. Sutherland Brown, and Mrs. Sutherland Brown, Commander and Mrs. R. I. Agnew, officers of the U.S.S. Idaho, H.M.S. Dragon and H.M.C.S. Vancouver, and officers of the local military units.

MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE

Although the windstorm of the early afternoon played havoc with the scenery, the loss detracted very little from the brilliance of the spectacle. From the opening entrance of the Indians with their squaws and their incantations around a fire, with the "medicine man" evoking a symbolic figure of civilization, who danced above childish grace, until the episode depicting the departure of the first contingent overseas in 1914, the history of British Columbia was portrayed with clever symbolism and realistic incident.

Britannia, a striking figure attended by heralds, occupied the dais above which was a huge replica of the British crown and the British Columbia coat of arms in glittering colored lights. This was the focal point of the pageant on which a powerful spotlight played, while flood lights erected above the grandstands illuminated the centre of the grounds with brilliant effect.

REPLICA OF GALLEON

The aboriginal scene, "a fantastic dream," was followed by the entrance of hundreds of girls in costumes depicting flags of the Empire, who went through a series of drills and dances with charming effect, to the music of the Canadian Scottish Band, under the direction of Bandmaster James Miller. The entrance of a striking replica of a medieval galleon bearing Marco Polo, the great Venetian adventurer and explorer, the first European to see the Pacific Ocean, was the signal for a loud outburst of applause from the spectators as the picturesque vessel journeyed realistically around the pageant ground.

This vessel reappeared at intervals during the evening, bearing in succession Marco Polo, Captain Cook, showing his historic meeting with Chief Maquinna and the Princess Maquinna, at Friendly Cove, Nootka; Quads leaving San Blas to confer with George Cook under the terms of the Nootka convention; Capt. Vancouver in his notable circumnavigation of Vancouver Island; Capt. Barkley with Mrs. Barkley, the first white woman to visit these shores, and finally Governor Blanshard.

In each of these successive journeyings the costumes of the principal figures and the crew of the vessel, were in keeping with the period, showing meticulous attention to detail, a feature which was noticeable throughout the whole pageant.

MEARS AND DOUGLAS

Mears and Douglas came next. The incident of the appointment of Capt. George Vancouver as British Commissioner to settle the claims arising out of the Nootka affair was illustrated by the reappearing of the ship, Capt. Vancouver standing on the deck while some of his marines fired a volley to demonstrate the British authority.

The Nootka Sound convention, the conference between Quadra and Vancouver; the circumnavigation by Capt. Vancouver of Vancouver Island; the arrival in 1793 of Sir Alexander MacKenzie at the Pacific, by an overland Canadian route; the abandoning of Nootka by the Spaniards in 1795, and Capt. Vancouver's departure for England in the same year, were rapidly pictured.

FOUNDING OF FORT

A realistic, if somewhat small, replica of the bastion played a big part in the final series of episodes, depicting the incidents from 1824, when Fort Vancouver was founded, the selection of Victoria as the Hudson's Bay Company's fort and the subsequent erection of Fort Victoria; the arrival of the first governor of Vancouver Island, the holding of the first Legislative Assembly, with Hon. J. S. Helmcken as speaker; the arrival of James Douglas; the advent of the first Sisters and the starting of the first school in Victoria; and the union of Vancouver Island and

British Columbia and the entry of the province into Confederation.

FIRST CONTINGENT

Illustrating more recent provincial history, after Confederation, was the departure of the first contingent from Victoria on August 26, 1914.

Earlier incidents of the period included the first meeting of the British Columbia assembly in 1872, the arrival of Sir John A. Macdonald in 1885 and other notable events in the history of the Island.

SPECTACULAR FEATURES

One spectacular bit of pageantry which elicited much applause, was the formation of the Union Jack with living models. The evolutions showed, first, the background of blue, then the superimposing of the various crosses to form the completed flag.

The entry of Queen Victoria in a barouche drawn by two white horses and with a mounted escort, was another episode which was much applauded.

At intervals throughout the pageant diversions were provided by way of dances and other features. At one stage the entry of about twenty girls in crinolines and bearing fans, was followed by a graceful minuet, as the huge chorus of flag-bearers marched in and out. This was followed by a beautiful exposition of a Spanish fandango by a charming signorita in white gown and white mantilla, her castanets clicking as she danced "a bit of Old Spain at Nootka."

Much amusement was created by the wrestling matches between Indian braves and white men, this being one of the incidents staged in connection with Capt. Cook's landing at Friendly Cove, Nootka.

The cast was as follows:

"Gives Me Joy To Share Our Garden With Others," Says 1931 Best Citizen

Mrs. R. P. Butchart Presented With Appreciation Medal By Mrs. T. P. Waters, Chief Factor of the Native Daughters of British Columbia, at Banquet at Empress Hotel.

Mrs. R. P. Butchart, creator of the famed Butchart's gardens, with their tradition of generosity by which they are available for the enjoyment of hundreds of thousands of persons every year, was yesterday named Victoria's best citizen in the yearly award bestowed under the Victoria Post No. 1 of the Native Sons of British Columbia.

The announcement was made at the British Columbia Diamond Jubilee of Confederation banquet at the Empress Hotel, attended by heads of the Province of British Columbia, the cities of Victoria and Vancouver, and of representatives of Canadian, British and United States fleets, the Canadian army, and other official and public bodies participating in the celebration.

The announcement that Mrs. Butchart had been chosen was made by R. H. Hiscocks, chief factor of the Native Sons here, and was greeted by the gathering standing and cheering her.

KNOWN FAR AND WIDE

"Mrs. Butchart is known throughout the entire civilized world for the benefactions she has conferred upon Victoria," said Mayor Anscomb, in a speech paying tribute to her works. "She has a distinguished husband in Mr. Butchart, Victoria is the only city in British Columbia which has the right to confer the freedom of the city on distinguished persons and Mr. Butchart and the late Governor-General of Canada are the only two persons who have had the freedom of the city conferred upon them."

The Mayor also paid tribute to the Native Sons and Daughters for their broad-minded attitude in making their selection, by not confining themselves within the boundaries of the city or those who have been born here.

"This honor is an expression by the people of the love they have for this great citizen, Mrs. Butchart," the Mayor said.

Mrs. T. P. Waters, chief factor of the Native Daughters here, placed the "best citizen" medallion on Mrs. Butchart.

BOTH FROM ONTARIO

Victoria's outstanding citizen of the day, Jeanette Foster Kennedy Butchart, was born in Ontario. In 1884 she married Robert Pim Butchart, born in Owen Sound, Ont. As a young man, Mr. Butchart commenced in the hardware business with his father, Capt. G. M. Butchart, who started the first Portland cement mill in Canada near Owen Sound in 1888. The family interests spread to a number of cement companies in Canada and the United States.

In 1904, Mr. and Mrs. Butchart came to British Columbia and made the beginnings of what has developed into the great cement plants of today on Seachich Inlet, twenty miles from Victoria. Three years after the opening of the first plant they decided to save the time of running in and out from the time of the works by taking up their residence near the plant. That was the start of the charming Butchart home at Benvenuto, which has fascinated hundreds of thousands of persons and is looked to by tourists as one of the features of a visit to this Coast.

THE Davis Cup Stars And U.S. Players Will Feature Meet

British Players Score Notable Victory in Davis Cup Tennis.

Enter Final Round for First Time in Last Twelve Seasons.

Weakened Condition of the French Team Makes Britain's Chances Better.

Sharkey-Walker Bout Holds Fistic Spotlight This Week.

UNITED STATES is out of the Davis Cup final for the first time in eleven straight years and Great Britain is in for the first time in the last twelve. Representatives of the United States have contested the final every year since 1920 and in the last six years have had France as their opponents. Great Britain got into the final round in 1919, but suffered defeat at the hands of Australasia and since that time has not been able to reach the deciding series. Britain's victory this year was somewhat of a shock to everybody, particularly the Americans, who had counted on their team of youngsters to regain the Davis Cup this season.

Victory for the British substantiates the fear expressed by Jean Borotra, who made the statement that in his opinion France would lose the Davis Cup this year, especially if the British won the intermediate final. Borotra feared the British team more than the United States representatives and on their showing against the Americans his prediction was well grounded. Austin and Perry came through with flying colors in the deciding two singles matches, and, providing the team the same form against France, Britain has a fine chance to win the honors for the first time since 1912, when Britain defeated Australasia by a score of three matches to two at Melbourne. The next year Britain lost to the United States at Wimbledon.

Britain's chances this year look much better through the weakened condition of the Frenchmen. Henri Cochet has been nursing an injured shoulder ever since the British championships at Wimbledon, and it is doubtful if he will be able to do himself justice. Borotra has failed to show up to expected form so the task of the British should be easier. However, it must not be forgotten that the Frenchmen have risen to great heights before they have had their backs to the wall.

Lesser fistic lights move over this week to make way for one of the world's leading heavyweights and an overgrown middleweight who think he can whip the big fellow. The heavyweight is Jack Sharkey, Boston, and the large middleweight, Mickey Walker, Rumson, N.J. They battle fifteen rounds or less at Ebbetts Field, Wednesday night.

Sharkey, who will outweight Walker by nearly thirty pounds, rules favorite in the betting, but more than a few experts are willing to concede the one-time "toy bulldog" at least an outside chance of upsetting the dope. Walker won the welterweight championship from Jack Britton in 1922, and lost it by decision to Pete Latzo in 1925. Then he turned his eyes to the middleweight crown, and before 1926 had drawn to a close he had won it from the late Tiger Flowers. He surrendered it only a few weeks ago, so he could meet Sharkey. The New York State athletic commission frowns on champions who go out of their class.

Sharkey, at his best, is generally considered the best of the American heavyweights. He is big, fast, strong, a clever boxer and a punishing hitter. Walker's courage is proverbial and he is a formidable puncher with either hand. He has had considerable success since he turned to the heavyweight division several months ago.

Victoria baseball fans will get their first taste of night baseball on Wednesday evening providing present plans are completed. The game is scheduled for the staging of the pageant at the Royal Athletic Park will be left in place and the Elks and Tillamook of the Victoria Senior Amateur League will follow under the artificial light. Night baseball has proved popular all over the country and no doubt the initial game here will draw an immense crowd.

The feasibility of hitting a fleeting white pellet under artificial light before the idea was actually introduced. So perfect have the arrangements been effected that ball players have been able to retain the averages that they could collect in the day time. The novelty of the evening setting has appealed to the fans and as a result many of the pro leagues which were not making money have been rolling in big game receipts at night games. Night baseball is now being played in the Pacific Coast, International American Association and Middle Atlantic leagues.

La Barba Scores Knockout in Less Than Half-minute

Stockton, Cal., July 21.—Before Jackie Mandell, Los Angeles, 190, had a chance to deliver one good punch, Fidel La Barba, former world flyweight champion, had hit him with half a dozen blows in the main bout here yesterday evening. Mandell crumpled and his seconds threw in a towel before the first round of their scheduled ten-round bout had gone thirty seconds. La Barba weighed 125.

Marcel Rainville, Dr. Jack Wright and Walter Martin, Three Members of Canadian Cup Squad, Will Seek Titles at Vancouver Next Week; Olive Wade, Toronto, Will Defend Women's Singles Crown; John Murio, Henry Prusoff, Jack Cosgrave, Ray Casey, Edith Cross, Dot Perow and Marlowe Sisters Head Strong United States Entry.

Vancouver, B.C., July 21.—With what promises to be the heaviest entry list in the history of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, the annual Canadian grass court championships will be staged at the Vancouver Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club next week. Play begins Monday with finals scheduled for the following Saturday.

Titular events on the programme included men's open singles, women's singles, men's doubles, women's doubles, mixed doubles, veterans' singles, veterans' doubles, and two junior events for players under eighteen years of age, boys' singles and girls' singles.

Local Stars To Seek Canadian Tennis Crowns

Victoria will be well represented in the Canadian lawn tennis championships to be held at Vancouver next week. J. C. I. Edwards, winner of the recent Victoria clay court singles championship, will play in the men's singles, along with Don Campbell, Victoria Club champion and Hugo Raymond. Heading the women's entries will be Marjorie Leeming, a former Canadian women's singles champion, who will attempt to win the crown at present held by Olive Wade, Toronto. Other local women entered include Mary Campbell, present women's city club singles champion; Helen Campbell, last year's British Columbia junior champion, and Mrs. John Edwards, holder of the women's city club doubles title, along with Mary Campbell.

"BALLOONER" TO REMAIN UNTIL 1932

United States Golf Association May Change Specifications Next Year

Many Protests Have Been Launched; No Decision Immediately in Sight

New York, July 21.—The days of "balloon" golf ball may be numbered, but it is due for quite a few more flights before anything is done about the protests that have piled up since its adoption this year by the United States Golf Association. Speculation was revived to-day by the publication of reports that the association was about ready to consign the oversized sphere to the scrap heap but the fact is that no official action has yet been taken, nor is any decision immediately in sight.

This much can be said on the authority of Herbert H. Ramsay, president of the U.S.G.A. and the dominating figure in its councils. As to what the future may hold, or what conclusions may be reached after more complete analysis of reports from all parts of the country, Mr. Ramsay is diplomatically silent.

The best guess right along has been that the balloon ball will continue to be used until the first of the 1931 tournament season. It still holds good. At the same time, it will cause no great surprise if the powers that be in American golf decide to alter the golf ball specifications for 1932.

Protests against the larger, lighter ball have mounted, since it became official last January 1, but they have not been consistent or clear-cut enough for definite conclusions to be based on.

Some of the most fiery opponents have cooled off under the influence of more thorough tests. Others apparently feel convinced there is a happy medium between the old and new balls, retaining the best features of each—namely, the new size and the old weight.

The new ball is 1.68 inches in diameter, 1.55 in weight. The old ball weighed 1.62 inches and measured 1.62 inches in diameter. The chief objections to the balloon ball have been that it is difficult to control in the wind, especially for the average player, and that it is less reliable on the greens. Its most favorable feature is that it affords generally better "lies" through the fairways.

Leading eastern Canadian players and prominent racket wielders of the Pacific Coast from as far south as California will vie for Canadian championship honors during the week. Heading the eastern entries already received are two regular playing members of the Canadian Davis Cup team, Marcel Rainville and Dr. Jack Wright, both of Montreal. Gilbert Runna, Toronto, present eastern Canadian titleholder, and Walter Martin, University of Toronto star, will also be here to battle for the men's singles title. Last year by Lyttleton Rogers, Irish Davis Cup player, who will not defend his championship next week. Olive Wade, Toronto, present women's singles titleholder, will be here to defend her title.

Nova Scotians entered included Miss Currie and Mrs. Woodbury of Halifax and Milton Musgrave, also of Halifax. Les McMaster will be here from Calgary, Alta., along with W. Gyles of Winnipeg, Man.

Prominent United States Pacific Coast stars already entered include John Murio, San Francisco Hawaiian, present Oregon State and Pacific Northwest champion; Henry Prusoff, Seattle, star British Columbia clay courts titleholder; Jack Cosgrave, junior champion of California; Ray Casey, San Francisco southpaw; E. Lacy, former University of California star; among the United States women entries are Edith Cross and Dot Perow, San Francisco doubles combination, who have won five titles so far this season. The Marlowe sisters, Helen and Mercedes, former U.S. junior doubles champions, have also sent in their entries.

The entry list closes Thursday and the draw will be made the following day.

WILL THIS CROWN AGAIN BE WON BY AN OUTSIDER?

THE FIRST AMERICAN TO WIN THE CANADIAN AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

IT IS ALL IN THE BREAKS

It is almost a year ago since Eddie Held annexed the Canadian Amateur golf title at Jasper Park, Alta., and for the first time took the title out of the country. During the finals Gardner White, Held's opponent, had a new experience pulled on him. At the tenth green a temporary halt was called until many repeated efforts of more thorough tests. Others apparently feel convinced there is a happy medium between the old and new balls, retaining the best features of each—namely, the new size and the old weight.

The error cost him three more strokes to the green and he conceded the hole to Held. Smiling, he remarked, "Love has ruined many a good man's game."

Rowing Trophies Now on Display

Trophies won by the James Bay Athletic Association oarsmen at the recent N.P.A.A.O. regatta, in Vancouver, are now on display in the window of W. & J. Wilson, Government Street. Since the crews returned, scores of requests have been received by the club for an exhibition of the cups. To answer these the J.B.A.A. has secured a window in the well-known clothing store.

France Will Not Send Tennis Team To Olympic Games

Paris, July 21.—The executive committee of the French Olympic Association decided to-day that insufficient funds were available to permit sending a French team to the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles. This decision, however, is subject to the action of the association as a whole. A general meeting is scheduled this Thursday and the draw will be made the following day.

VANGLER WILL MEET GARDNER

Two Tough Middleweight Wrestlers Matched For Saturday's Card

Attempt to Match Jack McLaughlin, Vancouver Star, With Jimmy Lamb

Sammy Vangler, Portland, and Joe Gardner, Seattle, two of the toughest middleweights to appear here, have been matched on Saturday night's wrestling card to be presented at the Tillamook gymnasium. In the other bout the local promoter is attempting to match Jack McLaughlin, Vancouver, with Jimmy Lamb, Portland.

In his last appearance here Vangler grappled to a draw with Jack Wolfgang, the bout being stopped by the chief of police when the pair became too dirty. Vangler is noted for his clever wrestling. Gardner is about the same build, has plenty of speed and can be brutal when necessary.

The McLaughlin-Lamb bout should be a good one. Lamb appeared here several weeks ago, putting up a great battle against Ernie Arthur. McLaughlin needs no introduction to local fans and in his last bout here defeated young Hackenschmidt.

The first bout will commence at 8.45 o'clock.

New Haven, Conn., July 21.—Jim London, Greece, claimant of the world heavyweight wrestling championship, threw Sander Szabo, Hungarian, with an airplane whirl in thirty-five minutes and forty-two seconds at the White City stadium here yesterday evening, before 5,000 fans. London weighed 200 and Szabo scaled 204.

Tiny Roebuck, Haskell, Ind., 245, won a close twenty-minute decision, which was shortened from thirty minutes on account of rain, over Sergi Kalmikoff, Siberia, 240.

Mike Romano, Chicago, 202 threw Gene Neuker, Belgium, 218, in 9.44 with a headlock.

Gene Bruce, London, 200, pinned Casey Berger, Texas, 210, in 21.12 by using the reserve flying mare.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Twenty Grand and Mate Renew Battle

Two Great Thoroughbreds Meet For Fourth Time in Travers on August 22

Mate Holds Upper Hand With Two Victories; Will Be Over Mile and Quarter

New York, July 21.—Hailed as two of the greatest thoroughbreds of recent American turf history, Mate and Twenty Grand probably will renew their battle for three-year-old supremacy in the historic Travers at fashionable Saratoga, August 22.

Right now Mate, boasting of two victories in three starts over Twenty Grand, holds the upper hand but the Travers may again throw the question of the championship of the division into a turmoil and leave it to be decided in the Lawrence Realization during Belmont Park's September meeting.

Prior to the running of the Arlington classic last Saturday, many rated Twenty Grand as a super horse and his followers are slow to admit that he is inferior to any 1931 three-year-olds. They point to his recent injury, which, in all probability, took some of the edge off the speed that bunched up a new record of 2:01 4-5 for the mile and a quarter in winning the Kentucky Derby.

FAVORS MATE

The Travers will be decided over a mile and a quarter. The same distance as the Kentucky Derby and the Classic, a distance that favors Mate. Big Jim Hwey, trainer of Mate, will have an opportunity to prepare the Bowditch colt for the Saratoga feature in just the manner he desires—plenty of rest and few hard workouts.

While Twenty Grand was pounding the turf of six tracks in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, the Preakness at Pimlico, the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, the Belmont stake at Belmont Park, the Dwyer Aqueduct and the Classic at Arlington Park, Mate was going through light workouts in preparation for only four stakes, of which he won three.

Softball Teams Meet To-night In Play-off Battles

This evening at the Central Park two softball play-off games will be played. At the upper diamond the Navy will meet North Saanich in a sudden-death game to decide the second half champions of the Victoria Progressive League. Bob Whyte and P. Henley will be the umpires. The winner will meet View Royal, first half champions, in a best two out of three series for the title.

At the lower diamond the City Firemen will meet Saanich Thistles in the first game of a two-out-of-three series to determine the champions of the Victoria Service League. Stocks and Chiff will be the umpires. The second game will be played at Hampton Road on Friday night.

Both games will commence at 6.30 o'clock.

German Girl Sets New World Record For Putting Shot

Dortmund, Germany, July 21.—Frau E. H. Haeublein, Elderfeld, bettered the world record for women in the shotput yesterday, tossing the eight-pound ball 13.16 metres, or forty-three feet two and one-eighth inches.

The listed world record for the women's shotput is 11.96 metres, or thirty-nine feet two and seven-eighths inches, set by Frau E. Haeublein in 1928.

SHARKEY AND WALKER SET

$200,000 Gate Expected For Bout To-morrow Evening at Ebbetts Field

New York, N.Y., July 21.—Close to $200,000 worth of customers, the promoter's hope, will pile into Ebbetts Field to-morrow night for the fifteen-round heavyweight battle between Mickey Walker and Jack Sharkey.

Both fighters have wound up their training grind in excellent condition. Walker, the one-time welterweight and middleweight champion, seldom has taken training very seriously, but he has worked out faithfully for the important of his career.

Sharkey, the 2 to 1 favorite, will have every physical advantage. At 190 pounds he will outweight Walker by almost thirty pounds. Sharkey is a whole head taller and with a corresponding advantage in reach, is big, fast and strong and a dangerous hitter.

Walker's only chance of cutting down the sailor man to his own size seems to lie in his punching power, especially with his left hand, his endurance and his unquestioned courage.

The promoters have decided that there will be no broadcast.

Two Wednesday Cricket Matches Carded To-morrow

Two Wednesday League cricket games will be played to-morrow afternoon with Five O's and Oak Bay meeting at Beacon Hill, and the Hudson's Bay and Saanich clashing at Hampton Road. Both matches will commence at 2.30 o'clock.

The Oak Bay team will be as follows: Kinch, Griffin, Hodges, J. Watson, Bailey, Robertson, Milton, Grant, Wilkinson, Joe Watt and Nelson.

St. Louis and A's Appear Certain To Meet In Big Series

Last Year's Contenders in World Baseball Series Have About Cinched National and American League Championships; Cardinals Hold Six Games Left While Athletics Out in Front by Seven Game Margin; A's Beat Chicago for Seventh Straight Victory Sox Pull Triple Steal; Cubs Beat Brooklyn in On National League Clash

Those sighs of contentment you hear from St. Louis and Philadelphia probably are emitted by Gabby Street and Connie Mack managerial rivals of the 1930 World series. You needn't bet it unless you feel so inclined, but it looks suspiciously as though Street's Cardinals and Mack's Athletics again will square off the October classic. For the Cardinals to-day lead the National League parade by six games while the Athletics had a seven-game margin over their nearest American League rivals.

Most of yesterday's action was concentrated in the American League, the A's setting the pace for the rest with a 12 to 7 triumph over the Chicago White Sox for their seventh victory in a row. Hank McDonald started off for the champions, but decided to call it a day after the first inning when the Sox scored six runs. Roy Mahaffey came in and held Donie Bush's crew to four hits and one run in the last eight innings, while the A's slugged four Chicago pitchers for sixteen hits to tie the score in the second and win out easily in the later innings. The White Sox were soundly beaten, but they had the satisfaction of engineering a triple steal in the opening frame, while McDonald was winding up, much to young Hank's embarrassment. Jimmy Fox hit his nineteenth home run for the A's.

SENATORS WIN

The Washington Senators kept step with the champions by beating Detroit Tigers, 7 to 3, for their fifth straight win. The Senators won out by scoring six runs in the second inning on six singles and a pair of Tiger errors. Fred Marberry granted eleven hits, but tightened up in the pinches to win his ninth game against one defeat.

The New York Yankees made it three in a row over the St. Louis Browns as Ed Wells, slightly out of his stride, pitched a two-run game with a double and a single and scored one himself to win, 8 to 5.

Clint Brown beat the Boston Red Sox to four hits, but the first inning, as the Cleveland Indians smashed out fourteen hits to win, 9 to 2. Luke Sewell was the only Indian who failed to connect.

The Chicago Cubs beat Brooklyn, 1 to 0, in the only National League game of the day. Danny Taylor's triple followed by Ralston Remsey's single accounted for the sole tally of the contest in the seventh. William Watson Clark, seeking his eighth straight victory, gave the Cubs only three hits, but lost out when his team mates failed to solve Charley Root's delivery in the pinches. Root was touched for seven hits, of which three went to Frank O'Doul. Despite the defeat, Brooklyn retained second place, a half game ahead of the New York Cubs and one game ahead of the Cubs.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago, July 21.—Watson Clark held the Cubs to three hits, but Chicago defeated the Browns, 1 to 0, yesterday by bunching two of three blows in the seventh inning. R. H. E. Brooklyn 0 7 2 Chicago 1 3 0 Batteries—Clark and Lopez; Root and Hemsley.

Boston at Pittsburgh—Rain. Only two games scheduled.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Washington, July 21.—Scoring all the runs in the second and third innings, the Washington Senators yesterday beat Detroit, 7 to 3.

R. H. E. Detroit 11 2 Washington 7 12 1 Batteries—Hogsett, Sullivan and Hayworth; Marberry and Hargrave.

Boston, July 21.—Clinton Brown held off Wally Stewart in the late innings, the Cleveland Indians yesterday defeated the Red Sox, 9 to 2. The Indians made a total of fourteen hits. All hit safely except Sewell.

Cleveland 9 14 2 Boston 2 4 2 Batteries—Brown and Sewell; Gaston, Durham, Morris and Connolly.

Philadelphia, July 21.—The Athletics defeated the Chicago White Sox, 12 to 7, yesterday. The champions made sixteen hits off four Chicago hurlers, three of whom being home runs by Hans and Fox. R. H. E. Chicago 7 8 3 Philadelphia 12 16 3 Batteries—Thomas, Fahway, Moore, Wehde and Grube; McDonald, Mahaffey and Cochrane.

New York, July 21.—Bunching their hits off Wally Stewart in the late innings, the New York Yankees made it three straight over the St. Louis Browns by winning yesterday's game, 10 to 5.

St. Louis 5 9 0 New York 10 16 0 Batteries—Stewart and Bengough; Wells and Dickey.

British Wightman Cup Team Leaves

London, July 21.—The English Women's Wightman Cup tennis team sailed on the Aquitania Saturday to visit Canada. Arrangements have been made by the Canadian National Railways for their itinerary, which will include Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto. At the conclusion of the United States engagements, the team will leave Boston for Montreal on August 30 by Canadian National. The party consists of Mrs. Sheppard Barron (in charge), Mrs. Barron, Betty Nuthall, Mrs. E. Fearnley Whittingall, Miss P. E. Muddford and Miss D. E. Round.

Wrigley Willing To Pay $50,000 For Art Shire

Chicago, July 21.—The Chicago Tribune said to-day that William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Chicago Cubs, is preparing to bid in the neighborhood of $50,000 for Art Shire, "The Great" Shires, first baseman of the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association.

The Texan, who has kept his batting mark above .445 most of the current season, would come back to a big league line-up after a stormy career which began in 1928 when he was purchased by the Chicago American League club from Waco and ended after he painted a blue eye on the manager's season before last. Shire was traded to Washington early last season, and was, in turn, sold to Milwaukee for $10,000 last winter.

The Milwaukee club hopes to receive at least $75,000 for Shire, the Tribune said. Not only is the owner anxious to obtain him, the Cleveland Indians, Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves are ready to place bids.

HORNSBY WILL PAY $50 FINE

Manager of Chicago Cubs Reprimanded For Arguing With the Umpires

New York, July 21.—Maybe it's the heat or the torrid scramble for advantageous positions in the standings, but the battle between the umpires and players in the major leagues gets hotter and hotter.

Within the last three days, two managers, two coaches and four players either have been suspended, fined or charged out of the ball park for the duration of the game. Manager Jol McGraw of the New York Giants has the lat with a three-day suspension imposed after McGraw's heated altercation with Umpire Clark at St. Louis. Coach George Burns was chased from the same game Saturday but escaped suspension.

Yesterday John Arnold Heyder, president of the National League, announced that Manager Rogers Hornsby and Coach Ray Schalk of Chicago Cubs and Frank O'Doul of Brooklyn Robins had been fined $50 each for their disagreement with the umpires in Saturday's game.

Willie Hoppe To Appear in Film

Welland, Ontario, House Is Bombed

Welland, Ont., July 21.—With a deafening roar, a bomb, presumably hand-made, shattered the veranda of the home of John Langer on Sixth Street, here early yesterday, tearing a hole in the veranda two feet square. Police Chief Boyd learned that Mrs. Langer a few days ago received a threatening letter, but its contents were not divulged by police. Neither Langer, his wife nor two children asleep in the house, were injured.

New South Wales Falls Into Line On Finances

State Expected to Rejoin Australian Loan Council; to Get $2,500,000 Loan

Bills Calling For Economy to Be Laid Before State Legislature

Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's

Canberra, Australia, July 21.—The state of New South Wales, the "bad boy" of Australian politics since Premier J. T. Lang came into power at the head of a Labor ministry last October, is apparently at last falling into line.

Premier Lang has now reached an agreement with Premier James Scullin, head of the commonwealth government, where by Mr. Scullin will place before the loan council the state Premier's request for an amount of $2,500,000 to meet the immediate requirements of New South Wales.

INTEREST QUESTION

In turn it is understood Premier Lang has agreed to submit to his cabinet and party the question of New South Wales rejoining the Commonwealth Loan Council, as well as the question of the state assuming responsibility for the payment of interest on overseas loans. The state has defaulted interest payments on a number of occasions this year, the burden being assumed by the commonwealth.

Premier Lang yesterday stated he proposed to introduce this week legislation covering an agreement to convert the state's loans and to introduce as soon as possible legislation providing for economy in expenditures, along the lines of the agreement reached at the recent Melbourne conference of premiers.

Hoover Sees Moratorium Aiding Wheat

Tokpe, Kans., July 20.—President Herbert Hoover, in a telegram to Senator Arthur Capper, predicts the moratorium on war debts would have a healthy reaction on the price of wheat.

The President stated the lack of foreign markets, due to the financial situation, was partly responsible for the low prices now being received by Kansas wheat farmers.

"You are entirely correct in your conclusion that a considerable part of the price difficulties of Kansas wheat farmers is due to the present paralysis of the export market arising from economic crisis in central Europe," said the President.

"This crisis naturally affects all countries importing our wheat. The major problem in this connection has been solved by aid given to Germany in postponement of debts, and I am confident that we will bring about a solution to the remaining difficulties."

"I know of no greater immediate service to the Kansas farmer and to unemployment generally than re-establishment of normal economic life in that (German) quarter."

Commenting upon Mr. Hoover's telegram, Senator Capper said that no one in United States public life was more qualified to judge the effect of the success of the President's plan to aid Germany.

"His assurance that the moratorium will start revival of business in Europe will be reflected all over the world," the Senator added. "Already the price of wheat has begun to advance."

London Papers Discuss Troubles Of Hudson's Bay

Canadian Press

London, July 21.—"It is very unfortunate," says the Sunday Observer, "that a certain amount of dissension is apparent among shareholders of the Hudson's Bay Company. The new Governor, Major Ashley Cooper, has been able to build up a strong and influential board, which should be able to set in motion recommendations of the committee of investigation and bring about a revival of the fortunes of the company. It might be suggested the proprietors should give the Governor and his colleagues a fair chance in their arduous task of rebuilding."

"There are difficulties ahead mainly associated with the depressed business conditions in Canada. It is necessary for the proprietors to give the new Governor every support and prevent once and for all irritating interruptions."

Like The Observer, the Sunday Times strongly advises shareholders of the Hudson's Bay Company to support the new Governor and directors.

"Conditions in Canada change very rapidly and with capable management the fortunes of this great historic company can be restored, but there must be no divided counsel," the newspaper declares.

"ELECTRIC COP" SPEEDS TRAFFIC

Pittsburgh, July 21.—A light that "sees" automobiles as they approach a street intersection in Pittsburgh, Pa., U.S.A., and as an "electric cop" turns on the green signal to go is demonstrated by Dr. Phillips Thomas, of the Westinghouse Research Laboratories, who designed the light.

This installation, believed to be the first of its kind in the world, is an adaptation of the famous photo-electric cell.

In operation for over six months, it is heralded by local residents as a great boon to traffic because it eliminates the time wasted by the driver of a car in the side street while waiting when the main arterial street is clear, for the light to change to green. Usually, the light on the main arterial street is green, speeding traffic. With cars on both intersecting streets, the green and red signals flash on a pre-determined time schedule, as do ordinary traffic signals.

New Floors at 30% Less Labor Costs

Superfine Fir Flooring

HERE is a soft wood flooring with a surface smooth as a table top. Only a hairline marks the joints. The cost of laying this flooring, according to reliable professional floor layers, is 30% less than ordinary old-fashioned tongued and grooved flooring.

Superfine Fir Flooring has a new exclusive V-shaped joint which permits a perfect fit at the touch of a hammer. A special machine produces exact widths and thicknesses. Superfine Fir Flooring has a satin-smooth surface. These advantages cut the cost of laying, scraping and finishing flooring to the absolute minimum. Yet the cost of Superfine Fir Flooring is the same as any other No. 1 flooring.

DAILY HEALTH SERVICE FRECKLES ACT AS SCREEN TO KEEP OFF SUNLIGHT

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Dr. Norman Tobias, in Hygeia, emphasizes the special tendency of the skin to develop irritations in hot weather. Because of the ultra-violet radiation, the greater humidity, the increased activity of the sweat glands and the increased exposure to infection, hot weather brings on all sorts of skin troubles. Sunburn can be so severe as to incapacitate an individual for weeks.

A wet skin exposed to the sun reacts more quickly and more seriously than a dry skin. Various ointments and creams help to prevent sunburn. Recently special creams have been developed to prevent serious burning.

A freckle that comes out in hot weather is not a disease. It is an attempt on the part of the skin to put up a screen to keep off the sunlight. When the exposure is stopped and the skin is protected, the blood picks up the pigment from the skin and gets rid of it. Freckle creams that are planned to peel off the skin are dangerous.

Many lotions and toilet waters contain ingredients that tend to deposit in the skin on exposure to the sunshine producing all sorts of streaks and markings. They seem to sensitize the skin to the ultra-violet rays. A person going in bathing needs no perfume. Toilet waters can be applied after the bath.

The most common infection of the skin in summer weather is the infection between the toes known as "athlete's foot." It is due to a widespread fungus which gets on the floor of shower baths, bathrooms and gymnasiums. In addition to this fungus, there are other parasites which tend to infect hot, moist skin.

A common infection of the skin is caused by a germ of the staphylococcus family which is fairly prevalent in summer. This condition is "barber's itch" or impetigo. It is spread by animals, by infected towels and in many other ways. A physician can clean the lesion and prescribe suitable antiseptics to clear it up.

Everybody knows about the frequency of poison ivy and poison oak in the summer time. Particularly serious are mosquito bites and the stings of fleas and flies. Bites of this type are easily infected, so that they may well be treated with good antiseptics.

The itching can be stopped by the application of suitable skin lotions containing anti-itching substances. Children should be watched particularly as to the danger of secondary infection from such bites, because they will scratch beyond all reason.

THIS CRICKETER ADMITS NO VICES IN DAYS OF YOUTH

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London.—"When I was young, I did not drink, I did not smoke, I did not go to the theatre, I did not dance, I did not play cards," said the Rev. F. H. Gillingham, the former Essex County cricketer, addressing the Lincoln Diocesan Conference, "but it taught me to say 'no,' although I know that I lost a great deal."

"I recall so-called Christian games, at so-called Christian parties, postman's knock, etc., which seem to hold more possibilities of physical ailments than you would normally get at a well-conducted dance. If I had a son who said he did not care to go to a dance or theatre because he had higher things to attend to, I should be proud of him. But if I had a son who preferred to go to a dance or have sixpennyworth of dark in a cinema than to a prayer meeting, and who had a picture of a film star stuck up in his room, I should be ashamed of him and give him the impression he was heading for the devil."

PLANNING BIG FLOWER SHOW

Victoria Horticultural Society
Will Stage Summer Event at End of Month

Chamber of Commerce Auditorium Will Be Transformed
By Wealth of Bloom

The Victoria Horticultural Society is arranging to hold its annual summer show on July 31 and August 1 in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce. The society is somewhat handicapped through the lack of a centrally located hall, but efforts are being made by a show committee to accommodate far more entries than ever received in previous years. The auditorium will be transformed by one of the finest displays of bloom, as well as fruit and vegetables, that has been seen here. This is made possible by an exceptional growing season and the ever-increasing interest of a very large number of garden lovers.

In an effort to encourage greater interest from an exhibition and competitive view, the society has arranged a number of items in its prize list for this year, making it possible for more to participate. The number of specimens have been reduced, giving those with smaller gardens opportunity to compete. Much of the produce from the garden competition will be displayed at this show.

In addition to the competitive entries gardens as well as a number of commercial growers. These are always points of interest to the public, and will again be appreciated. It has been found necessary to fix a closing date for entries to that the judging committee will be able to find ample accommodation for all. This has been set for Wednesday, July 29.

Prize lists are available at all floral stores and those carrying garden supplies, or from the secretary, P. E. Boulter, 538 Obed Ave., phone E 8490.

ENGLAND FIGHTS
MUSKRAT PEST

Steps Taken to Prevent
Importation: Animals
Numerous in Saanich

In view of the fact that muskrats are reported to be a nuisance in several low-lying farm areas, of Saanich and surrounding districts, an item from London dealing with steps suggested there for dealing with the animals may be interesting.

A bill entitled the Destructive Foreign Animals Bill was introduced in the House of Lords recently, designed to prohibit importation and the keeping within Great Britain of any animal of the species, which it is stated, has become a serious pest in certain districts of England and Scotland. Activities of the animals near important waterways in Scotland have caused considerable alarm and they have overrun several European countries. Burrowing of muskrats in irrigation ditches, eating of vegetable crops and other plants has caused damage in Saanich areas, it is reported. They are not native to this island and owing to rapid breeding, some of the animals which have escaped from confinement after importation have multiplied rapidly.

ELECTORS HEAR CANDIDATE IN EAST HAMILTON

Hamilton, Ont., July 21.—Failure of Premier Bennett to cure the unemployment situation was scored by Humphrey Mitchell, Labor candidate in the East Hamilton federal by-election, at an open-air rally here yesterday.

He referred to the death a year ago of Col. Rennie, who formerly represented the constituency in the House, and the delay in taking steps to provide a successor. "Thus you electors of East Hamilton," he said, "were deprived of representation at Ottawa as well as one of the most momentous sessions of parliament in the history of this country."

J. S. Woodsworth, Labor M.P. for Winnipeg North Centre, and E. J. Garland, U.F.A. member for Bow River, spoke in support of the candidate. They both mentioned the Beauharnois inquiry disclosures.

banks of the Middle West had withdrawn heavily. The official communiqué merely said: "The international conference considered the methods of international co-operation whereby confidence in Germany's economic stability may be restored in the immediate future as a preliminary to examination of further measures which may be necessary to effect a permanent restoration of Germany's financial situation on a firm basis."

It was arranged that the finance ministers of the countries represented at the conference, with Dr. Brüning and Prime Minister MacDonald, should meet this afternoon to continue examination of the questions raised. In some quarters it was asserted the conference had been encountering severe difficulties, attributed by some to alleged concessions. At the same time it was said the United States and Great Britain were agreed Germany must have help and were prepared to see she should get it whether France would participate or not.

BRITAIN AND U.S. AGREE

Great Britain and the United States were believed to be in complete accord, regarding immediate relief as imperative, but it was said they did not approve of a long-term plan at this time. Rather, it was said, they favored short-term credits which would bridge over the immediate desperate need and give Germany and her creditors time to discuss what further measures of relief could be extended in the autumn. France was believed to favor protracted discussions, but the United States and Britain were understood to maintain that speed was essential. In support of this contention it was said Chancellor Brüning was doubtful over the stability of his government.

U.S. SUGGESTIONS

Washington, July 21.—A proposal from the United States government that the bankers of the world maintain their present volume of credits to Germany is before the interested powers at the ministers' conference in London. Acting Secretary of State Castle to-day made known the details of the formal suggestions approved by President Hoover for relieving Germany. At the outset the proposals laid before the conference by the United States placed entirely in Europe's hands the solution of the political problems.

GERMAN MEASURES

It was suggested the maintenance of the present levels of credits be supplemented with continued measures by Germany to stem the internal tide within that country. It was proposed there be established a committee of the Bank for International Settlements or through other means to secure co-operation in restoring world banking operation in continuing world banking interests; co-operation in an inquiry to determine Germany's further economic needs and study for the conversion within six or eight months of a part of the short term credits into long term credits. Castle estimated the total of the short term credits at $1,200,000,000, one-half of which is held by United States banks.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, July 21.—Wheat: Displayed a firmer tone today aided by the congestion in Chicago July wheat which advanced 2 cents. A little more favorable news from London in regard to the conference on the German financial situation and a better demand for one kind and another for wheat. The pool reported on 1,000,000 bushels sold late Monday afternoon and another 200,000 bushels worked this morning with inquiry for bids in the market for another 200,000 bushels. Some small sales were also worked by local exporters during the morning, while mills were buying on a moderate scale. However, the pit was not large, but there was little pressure from offerings except on the extreme bulges when they increased.

Chicago September and December advanced about 1 cent, and Winnipeg kept pretty well in line. Short covering in July was reported as the cause of the strength in July. Local demand for cash wheat was quiet, and spreads were unchanged. No pressure of offerings. There was no particular change in the flour situation, but a healthier tone is indicated, and mills have received some new export business the past week. Sentiment appears to be a little more friendly. Liverpool reported future market as very dull, with demand for parcels extremely low and American winters and Canadian wheats being offered more freely. Continues to favor purchases on the setbacks. Winnipeg futures closed 1/2 to 3/4 higher.

Liverpool due unchanged to 1/4 higher based on Winnipeg. Coarse grain markets were generally firm with wheat, but somewhat quiet. Flax also quiet firm. Very little selling.

The Melody Girl

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

(Copyright, 1931, by NEA Service)

He did not notice that his Aunt Emma was looking for him and he quite forgot to take any special notice of Beryl's debut.

It occurred on a rainy night, thereby affording Irene an excuse to stay at home and listen to the radio without admitting that she wouldn't have done anything else for worlds.

She'd have been much happier if she had gone out for there was no doubt of it—Beryl scored a success. The announcer told of the telephone messages of praise that poured in and of the enthusiasm of the studio attaches, of the congratulations that were being heaped upon the young singer and of the singer's charmingly natural acceptance of it all. She seemed, he said, neither to take it for granted as what was due her nor to feel that she was being overpraised. She was grateful, pleased, happy and "like a child before a Christmas tree," he told his audience.

"You'd be glad, if you could see her," he confided, "to share her joy without an iota of envy. Why, right now, folks, she's turning her back on the young impresario who stands in awe before a bouquet that—well, I just wish that I could describe it to you! We never saw anything like it around here before. It's a mile high and a half mile long and looks like it had all the flowers from the Garden of Eden in it—all in all, folks, it's the grandest, most gorgeous bunch of flowers that was ever put together as a love poetry. Yes, sir, that's what it is—a love poetry—I can tell by the way she looks at it, and I think I hear her saying something about 'those blessed kids'—All I have left to say is, well, kids, whoever you are, she is sure tickled to death with your wonderful offering."

There was more but Irene tuned it out on pretext of improving the reception. Her face was contorted with jealous emotion but Tommy did not see it as they had been sitting in the semi-dark. It was the season when, for a few days, certain people were sorely troubled with gnats. Everett house was none too well screened. It was best not to burn a light in the room where you sat. To-night there was only the subdued light from the hall to illuminate the living-room.

So Tommy did not see how Irene felt about her sister's success. He heard her say something conventionally decent about it, and agreed, although more wholeheartedly, that it was great, never realizing that Irene was seething with suppressed envy. With her mother and father sitting in the dining-room, and no excuse for it anyway, Irene had not dared say what she really felt concerning Beryl's debut. She could not refrain, however, from remarking that people anyone who appreciated music could not care for Beryl's singing. If people really wanted that sort of thing it was just lucky for Beryl, that she had the telephone to her room.

Then the telephone rang and Irene, who had been sitting in the living-room, went to the door and opened it. People whom Irene had stormed against inviting to the house for the occasion, and finally convinced her mother that Beryl might like to have them, were calling up to say how glad they were that she had made a hit.

That was more than Irene could endure. She dragged Tommy away for a walk on the beach. He hated to go for some of the nearby neighbors were coming in uninvited and Mrs. Everett was getting out marble cake and lemonade.

The neighbors ate the cake and stayed on. Someone had suggested that they remain and greet Beryl. Mrs. Everett in a flutter of pride and excitement said, "Yes, do," and got out more cake and lemonade.

Beryl would, she said, come on the 11:57 train from New York. Who was going to meet her at the station?

Why, Tommy was supposed to. No one in the family could drive her flivver but Beryl. Maybe she'd left it at the station. No, she hadn't for it had a flat tire when she went to town and the kids had just got it patched for her.

Well, where was Tommy? He went out with Irene. Well, Mr. Reed would get his car out and they'd give Beryl a surprise at the station. He may as well could pile into it, leaving a place for Beryl, but when they returned she was not with them. She had not come on the 11:57 and that was the last train.

CHAPTER XVI

Irene and Tommy, their walk ending in a quarrel, returned to her home a few minutes after the party that had gone to the station to meet Beryl.

Mrs. Everett was about to give her self over to anxiety when Irene took her aside and declared that it was no more than they could expect. Look how Beryl had treated them all along—not saying a word—springing the whole thing on them as if they were outsiders! That was just what they were to her anyway. She didn't consider herself one of them. If she hadn't felt that way she wouldn't have kept her father's name; she'd have called herself Beryl Everett.

"Just the same," Mrs. Everett protested, "it's not like Beryl to say one thing and do another. And she said she'd be home on the 11:57. She could just make it from the studio, she said, if she hurried."

Irene laughed. "If she hurried," she repeated insistently, "Maybe that's the answer. Maybe she didn't hurry."

"Oh, Irene, what do you mean?" her mother wailed, but Irene made no answer for in the front of the house there was a sudden commotion.

"She's here!" someone exclaimed. "There's a car stopping before the house."

Mrs. Everett ran to see who it was and just as she reached the door and the living-room Beryl came tumbling in, her hair flying, her face flushed, her eyes shining with tears.

"I didn't expect there'd be anyone here but the folks," she explained, "and I couldn't hold in any longer."

"No one would expect you to be dignified, dear," Irene said sweetly. Beryl did not appear to hear. "Someone's got to come out and help lug in the flowers," she invited. "They're dumped on the curb."

"Why didn't you have the taxi driver bring them in?" her mother asked. "Taxi driver?" Beryl repeated. "That was Mr. Gaylord's car and his driver," she said and stalked out to the front porch where she had a heap of flowers, stilling a laugh in the sudden embarrassment of finding herself unexpectedly facing a roomful of people. She got up, she said, and then apologized.

feeling sleepy, remarked that Beryl must be tired. Someone else, thinking it an occasion for an all-night celebration, wanted her to sing for them but that to Beryl asked to be excused.

Her actual remark to be a cue for the gathering to break up and presently she was alone in her room, where she had wanted to be—to stand face to face with this bewildering event in her life, to ask "Old Faithful" what he thought about it, and to suffer with an intensity that shamed her over Tommy's attitude. It had been bitterly disappointing. He had not been more interested than anyone else and she had wanted some special demonstration from him. Of course she was a fool.

She stood by her window staring down at the gate where Tommy was saying good-night to Irene and a sense of the irony of fate swept over her. Here she was, going to bed with the ring of plaudits still in her ears—sound that she knew would be priceless to Irene. And there was Irene, down there saying good-night to Tommy—something that she, Beryl, would give all the world's applause to be doing if she knew it.

She turned quickly from the window as the lovers kissed. She didn't mean to be spying. Then she heard Tommy go whistling down the street. Irene must have made him very happy.

Poor Beryl. The very thing that she had secretly hoped would impress Tommy, make him realize that there was someone else on earth besides Irene, had driven him farther away.

Irene was ready to claim everything to which she had the slightest right. And it was safe to her wound, the wound inflicted by Beryl's rise to greater popularity, to feel that Tommy had been alienated from her, that he had a little to her with him begging for possession of her.

When Tommy left her at the gate he had at least a half promise that she would marry him soon. It was this sudden softening on her part which had begun soon after Beryl arrived that caused his indifference to Beryl's success to continue through her hour of triumph.

For several days he lived on hope while Irene wavered. She wouldn't. It was hard to live with Beryl's success, but on the other hand it was interesting too. Telephone calls, flowers, fan mail, invitations. They did not come in great numbers but there were enough to make Irene feel that she was at least in contact, even if it was only by a family relationship, with the life for which she yearned.

At one time she had thought of going to Hollywood to try her luck. But someone had told her how that city turns girls back from its threshold by the scores by presenting to them the truth about conditions there and showing them the difficulty of getting a chance. Irene was no crusader. She gave up the idea of going to Hollywood. The sheltered life was good enough for her, she decided.

But she had not given up the desire to be a darling of the public. And so she had many things to do. Tommy felt it was interesting too. Telephone calls, flowers, fan mail, invitations. They did not come in great numbers but there were enough to make Irene feel that she was at least in contact, even if it was only by a family relationship, with the life for which she yearned.

Why Do Even Self-supporting Girls Find Their Chief Interest in Boys?—Can a Husband Be Held Against His Wish?

DEAR MISS DIX—Why do most girls think boys are everything in the world? The chief interest of most girls' lives is trying to find out how to attract boys. That is why boys are so coveted, and they have a right to be, the way girls run after them. Men can make their own living and get along a lot better if they are married, so what's all this fuss about boys about?
C. S.

Answer—It's biological, daughter. It's biological. Most girls think boys are everything in the world because the Lord made 'em that way. They can't help it, poor things.

And boys would feel the same way as girls if they gave them a chance. They don't do it. They beat them up, and they haven't enough sense to know that if they would quit chasing men, the men would begin chasing them hot-foot.

That is what always provokes me so with the girls who put up with all sorts of rudeness and neglect and tyranny from boys in order to get their attentions. Lots of girls make all the dates and furnish the car and the gasoline and feed the brutes and even buy the theatre tickets just to get boys to take them out.

Lots of girls will let boys pick them up and put them down when they like it and break dates and then when the boys come around again with delight instead of slamming the door in their faces. Many girls submit to loathsome petting and kissing at which the very souls revolt because of they don't the boys won't take them to the movies.

Yet if these girls had an inch of backbone and would show a little independence they could force the boys to treat them with respect, because the boys can no more have a good time without the girls than the girls can without the boys. An Eveless Eden would be just as lonesome a place as an Adamless Eden. No boy gets a thrill out of dancing with another boy any more than a girl gets a kick out of dancing with another girl.

In your mother's generation the girls had more dates than they do now, and the boys made them. Mothers never sat at home and sulked, but they used to go out for a walk with their girls, and even after they have run out the telephone trying to scare up a date—because mother wasn't easy to get as girls are now, and that plagues the boys' interest in her. So, mother went buggy-riding with young men often than you go jogging, but no young man would have dared to come out and knock his horn in front of her house and expect her to run out and jump joyously in his arms.

You see, daughter, it is because girls make themselves so cheap that the men don't want them. If diamonds were as common as pebbles, no man would pick one up and just as long as girls throw themselves at men's heads men are going to be the artful dodgers.

As to women feeling that life is a failure unless they get married, that is part nature and part tradition. Of course, the most perfect happiness at can come to any human being is to find one's real mate and establish a peaceful home and have children. That is every woman's, and probably every man's dream, but it does not always materialize.

Often a woman gets as a husband a man who drinks or is a philanderer or is lazy or grumpy or unkind. Often marriage means to her nothing but slavery and the bearing of children she cannot even provide for. Such a woman would be a million times better off single with a job which brought in a pay-envelope. But, you see, no woman ever thinks that that kind of fate is ever going to befall her. It never crosses her mind that she could possibly miss getting a Prince Charming as a husband, so that is one reason women all want to marry.

And another reason is that they still have the superstition that if a man doesn't get married it shows that she was a failure as a woman and of no charm. All of which, of course, is nonsense, but the tradition sends any woman to the altar who later regrets it.

But you are wise to realize that men are not everything in the world as far as women are concerned, and that a woman is far better off not to marry unless she can marry well.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I never got along together. He has asked me to give him a divorce, offering me alimony. I refused indignantly. Now he treats me with extreme contempt and aversion and is bent on admitting the situation to his associates and family, who side with him. Would I continue my efforts to hold our home together or give him a divorce?
DISTRACTED WIFE.

Answer—Your home is already broken up. I should think the best thing you could do would be to give your husband a divorce and make the best terms you can with him. You can't force a man to live with you, and a home in which a man hates his wife and is held against his wish is no home. It is hell on earth for both.

Animals Which Build Islands

A swim in the cool ocean is something pleasant to think about on hot summer days. Not long ago an eleven-year-old girl asked me:
"Is it really true that a person finds it easier to swim in salt water than in fresh water?"
I told her it is easier to swim in salt water—provided, of course, that the waves are not too high. I also described to her how I took one day in Great Salt Lake. In that lake the water is so heavy you cannot sink unless you dive and hold a weight in your arms. In the sea, the water is not so heavy as to prevent you from sinking; but it buoy you up a great deal.

until at last it becomes a reef or an island. Driftwood and floating seaweed add to coral islands, and at length they may become covered by grass and plants. Human beings dwell on several coral islands. A small island called "Sombbrero" is of coral origin, and is one of the West Indies. Coral reefs form a danger to ships, which may run aground upon them. In ancient times, coral was taken from the sea to be used as charms. The Romans hung pieces around the necks of their children, to save them from danger. The olden Gauls placed coral on their helmets. It is reported that even at the present day, coral is used in Italy as a charm to guard people against "the evil eye."

PEACE RAILWAY LINK WITH COAST IS DISCUSSED

Ottawa, July 21.—Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, told the Commons yesterday it was not at present possible to tell when a policy regarding a proposed Peace River railway outlet would be enunciated. Replying to questions from D. M. Kennedy, U.P.A. Peace River, the minister said there had been a conference on the matter recently. It was a large question and would require deep consideration before a conclusion was reached.

VOYE UPHOLDS GOVERNMENT

London, July 21.—A Conservative vote of censure of the government on account of its agricultural policy was defeated in the House of Commons yesterday evening, 278 to 230. A government defeat on the question would have meant immediate resignation of the ministry.
